THE GOOD LITTLE BOY WHO DIED.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER

He lay in his cradle the whole day long. A baby who never cried;
He did without rocking, he did without song.
He fed when he could and bore many a wrong,
He could not be bad if he tried,
The good little boy who died.

At school he was always the teacher's pet, For holidays never sighed, But learned all his lessons with never a fret, By truant companions was never beset, He could not be bad if he tried, The good little boy who died.

At college he played an original part,
The "bible"* his faithful guide.
In poker or rackets he never showed heart,
Nor did anything just because it was smart,
He could not be bad if he tried,
The good little boy who died.

A girl was a truly angelic thing,
Her candor he never denied:
He never once thought she would feign or could
He never once gave her a kiss or a ring,
He could not be bad if he tried,
The good little boy who died.

He flung himself into the world's busy jam,
It shattered his priggish pride;
He suddenly found he was shorn like a lamb,
And swiftly discovered all life was a sham;
He could not be bad if he tried,
So he lay calmly down and died.

THE CLOWN'S WARD.

WRITTEN FOR THE NEW YORK CLIPPER, BY BOB WATT.

BY BOB WATT.

Bill Bartz, clown with the International Circus, was what is termed a good fellow. He followed out all the principles laid down as necessary to make a man a good fellow to other people; but in doing that he made a pretty bad fellow for himself. In other words, Bill was always ready to spend his salary in treating others to liquor, and was always willing to assist a man who was unfortunate, but never took any thought for himself. The result was that when the white tents ceased to travel Bill generally found himself confronted with the stern fact that Winter had to be put through on a very limited capital. Eacn season found Bill no better off: and, no matter how many good resolutions he made, his salary would slip through his fingers. We had all given Bill up as a hopeless case, and thought that nothing would cure him of his reckless extravagance, and we naturally surmised that the end would be a loss of a season's work, a severe attack of illness, and a death in the poorhouse. Happily, this was all averted, and by a singular occurrence.

We were showing at Clinton, a small city in lowa, and, as usual, made a feature of our street-parade. When that was over. Bill had alighted

we were showing at Clinton, a small city in lowa, and, as usual, made a feature of our street-parade. When that was over, Bill had alighted from the little wagon he rode in, and was just making for the tent to wash off his make-up, and start out for several stiff horns before the afternoon's performance. As he reached the main entrance, he came across a little girl, who was weeping. He spoke to her. She stopped crying, and for a moment gazed into his face with an astonished look. Then, as she recognized him as a clown—an individual who always brings joy to a child's heart—for a moment she forgot her own troubles and stood looking at him in his motley garb, as if he were a creature of another world. Bill repeated his question, and then she said, in an assured tone of voice:

"I'm losted; but you'll help me to find papa and mama—won't you, Mr. Funnyman?"

"Of course I will," said Bill, thinking, no doubt, that she was the child of one of the residents of the city, and that the task of finding her parents would be an easy one.

Bill took her by the hand and led her into the

the city, and that the task of finding her parents would be an easy one.

Bill took her by the hand and led her into the tent. The little girl was not more than seven years of age, was dressed nearly and was very pretty. After Bill had washed his face and assumed his everyday attire, he took the little one on his knee and commenced questioning her as to her parents and home. She seemed to trust Bill from the first, and gave him all the information she could, which, however, was very meagre. She said her name was Alice Kemp, that she had been riding in the cars ever so long, and that she had got "losted" from her papa and ma, and that was all she knew.

all she knew.

As it was not time for the afternoon performance,
Bill and myself and the child started for the Mayor's office too see if we could not trace her parents. Bill stated the case to the Mayor in as parents. Bill stated the case to the Mayor in as few words as possible, and asked what would be-come of the child in case her parents were not

"Oh," said the Mayor, "this county is rich enough to support a poorhouse, and the youngster can go there if her parents do not turn up."

"Well, she will never go to the poorhouse as long as I have a dollar," said Bill.

"Tut tut, man" said the Mayor. "What's the use of your worrying about the child? The chances are that her father and mother deserted her, and the poorhouse is the best place for her."

"Perhaps you may think so, but I don't," said Bill, and, taking the little girl by the hand, he walked out.

As we were on our way back to the show, I asked Bill what he intended doing with the little girl. He told me that he meant to keep her until her father and mother should claim her. I did not say anything, but could not help thinking that Bill would be a mighty poor guardian for a little girl. We reached the grounds, and after little Alice had been turned over to some of the ladies of the company to be washed and primped up, we went to dinner. After the meal Bill took the little one in charge and placed her in a good seat beside the band, where she could see everything, and where he could keep a watchful eye on her during the progress of the performance. After the show a number of men had congregated at the main entrance, and were discussing Bill's intention of taking care of the child, which in some mysterious way had reached the ears of all the company. One of the men, in speaking of it, said:

THE LATE E. Z. C. JUDSON (NED BUNTLINE).

his little ward in it for the Winter. Then, instead of idling his time away, he secured work and kept at it until the next tenting season was due. When the International Circus again started on the road, Bill and his ward were included among the number of people. I never saw another man idolize a child as Bill did that one. He worked and cared for her as if she had been his own flesh and blood, and it would have been a sorry day for anyone who would have injured little Alice. In fact, the manager of the International came near losing the services of Bill for merely suggesting that he teach her some little trick. Bill's answer was:

"No, she shan't enter the profession as long as I have a dollar."

As time rolled on, and Bill grew fonder and fonder of the little girl, he ceased his vigilant search for her parents, and I really believe he would have been sorry had they turned up to claim her.

I lost sight of him and his ward for three seasons. At the end of that time, I was engaged in the same company with him, and I found him still sober and industrious, while she had grown into a sweet girl, with a quiet, dignified air, that showed her education was not being neglected. She was then about ten years of age, and had almost forgotten the fact that she ever had any parents but Daddy Bartz.

"The idea of a dissipated fool like Bill Bartz trying to manage a kid." Why, he'll get full some night, forget all about her, and she'll get hurt in some way." When the Bill came out of the tent. He had not missed left for many miles, additionally the bear that the bill came out of the tent. He had left that give you're right I am a drunkard, and always have been; but, if I take this child, I quit at once, and will never touch another drop."

No one said a word, although but few believed Bill capable of keeping the promise thus made Bill capable at the Mayor's office that afternoon, but no inquiry had been made, and the same news was repeated when he called just before we left town. That decided the matter, as far as Bill was concerned, for he at once made arrangements to carry the child with him.

"I don't deserve thanks, for I didn't want to lose my Daddy Bartz, did I?" It was rather singular, but that accident was the It was rather singular, but that accident was the means of restering Alice to her parents. The newspapers published the whole story, giving her right name and the facts of her being an adopted daughter of the clown. Our manager, seeing a chance to mske a few extra dollars, announced that Alice would appear at that evening's performance. Mr. and Mrs. Kemp, who had mourned their daughter as dead, had noticed the name of the little girl, and, though hoping against hope, had visited the circus. As soon as they saw her, they recognized her as their child. Mr. Kemp at once sought Bill, and Alice was soon folded in the arms of her mother. Mow she came to be lost was satisfactorily explained. Her father and mother were on a trip to the East from California. The father had gone into the smoking-car just before were on a trip to the East from California. The father had gone into the smoking-car just before they reached Creston, the mother having dropped off into a doze. The train stopped for a moment at Creston, and the child had wandered through the car without being noticed by anyone, evidently searching for its father. When she reached the platform the circus-parade attracted her attention, and she had alighted from the train. Her father Liszt's recent visit to London, in which he appeared rather as Lisztener than actor, recalls a good story in which other great musical masters figure. Liszt, in partnership with Mendelssohn and Herz, arranged for a grand concert in London, many years ago, in which the three virtuosi were to play one of Bach's compositions on three pianos, all agreeing that each in turn should improvise his point d'orgue. Liszt and Herz, knowing the wonderful facility with which Mendelssohn could make music to order, determined to steal a march on him, as it were, and prepare their improvisations, so to speak, in advance. Herz played first and was loudly applanded. Liszt came next, and the enthusiastic andience came near lifting the roof off with their cheers. Mendelssohn, who had been listening attentively, became very pale, not through fear, but through anger; for he at once guessed the trick his rivals had resorted to in order to triumph over him. When his turn came, he started off with a bona fide improvised prelude; but before reaching the half-mile post he changed his gait. Combining the stately trot of Liszt's alleged improvisation fide improvised prelude; but before reaching the half-mile post he changed his gait. Combining the stately trot of Liszt's alleged improvisation with Herz's well-prepared impromptu march, he reproduced them first in counterpoint and then as a fugue, with so much success that he brought down the house, and overwhelmed his competitors with surprise and chagrin. He and Liszt played together many times afterward; but, aware of the latter's superiority and of the influence of his personal appearance and inspired attitudes, Mendelssohn always insisted that the piano should be hidden behind a screen, so that the audience should not know which of the two was the performer for the time being. former for the time being.

RACING IN ENGLAND.

RACING IN ENGLAND.

The Summer meeting at Leicester, Eng., opened July 20, when the principal event was the Zetland Stakes, for two-year-olds, $10,000, five furlongs, which was won by Douglas Baird's Salisbury, 126lb; Gallinule, 126, second, and St. Mary, 123, third. On the second day, 21, the Leicester Cup, of $7,500, added to a handicap of $126 each, one mile, was won by Lord Hastings' Melton, 4—130, with Exmoor, 3—99, second, and Wise Child, 3—90, third. On the same day the Knighton Plate, $3,000, for two-year-olds, five furlongs, was won by Lady C. Innesker's Trappist filly, with Forever second and Colostos third...

The great race for the Eclipse Stakes, of $50,000 to the winner, $2,600 to second, $550 to third, by subscription of $550 each, about a mile and a furlong, was decided at Sandown Park July 23. The scratching at the eleventh hour of Minting, owing to an injury, rendered the race an open one, and it attracted an enormous crowd of people. It had twelve starters, of which H. T. Barclay's Bendigo, 6yrs., 1331b., was the favorite and an easy winner. Martinet and Cataract led the field for the first half mile, at the end of which Braw Lass took up the running and led the way into the straight. Here Bendigo, Candlemas and St. Gatien came through from the rear and began the struggle for the finish. It was soon plain to all that Bendigo could not be beaten and he literally won in a canter by three lengths, while Candlemas beat St. Gatien out for second money by half a length. The winner was ridden by Tom Cannon, Fred Archer (who was to have piloted Minting) being on Candlemas, and C. Wood having the mounton St. Gatien...... Same day and place, the National Breeders' Froduce Stakes, for three-year-olds, $5,000 added to $50 each, five furlongs, was won by Gallinule, Martley second and Maxim third.

THE SARATOGA RACES.

There was the customary large and fashionable assemblage at the opening of the Summer meeting of the Saratoga Racing Association on Saturday morning, July 24, while the weather was delightful and the track in fairly good condition. Result: Purse $400, for three-year-olds and upwards, $100 to second, five furlongs—M. B. An Equine Barani.—While strolling in the neighborhood of Walnorth the other evening I was attracted by a crowd near the St. Paul's Tavern. Westmoreland road, and found that the proprietor. Cubitt Cook, had put a white apron on his celebrated trotting pony Our Nell, which, it will be recellected, was successful at the first trotting meeting held at Alexander Park this season. The base' was evidently quite at home behind the bar, but, though able to drink ale out of a glass or pot, was not quite far enough advanced in the business to draw it for herself.—London Spering Life.

L. E. MYKUS, the ex-amateur champion runner, has become a race herse owner by purchasing Lord Beaconsheid. He has placed the horse in the care of William Stoops, an able trainer. Myers' racing colors will be white, with cherry damond on breast and cherry cap. These are the colors which "Lou" has so often carried to the front on foct, and his friends will hope that they may frequently be first under the wire on the equine race-track.

RENTON'S GRIEVANCE.

RENTON'S GRIEVANCE.

The old trouble between D. H. Reuton of West New Brighton, St. L, and the L. A. W. has come to the surface again, as a result of the expulsion of Renton from the League in Februry last, "for conduct subecoming a gentleman," and the refusal of the board of officers to give him a hearing on May 29 last. Dr. N. Malon Beckwith was arrested July 17. on a charge of criminal libel. On the 19th Edward F. Hill, ex-chief consul of the New York State Division, was arrested at his home in Peckskill, also on charges snade by Rentou. The prisoners were taken before Justice-of-the-peace Powers of West New Brighton, S. L. and were subsequently allowed to go on their own recognizance. A preliminary hearing in the case was held 23 before Justice Lot Alston, at Port Richmond, S. I. Three witnesses were placed on the stand to prove that The Bulletin, in which the charge against Renton was printed had a circulation, and then a copy of the paper was placed in evidence. The hearing was then adjourned until Sept. 22.

A NEWARK, N. J., genius has invented a bicycle alarm which for novelty at least, should take the prize. He calls it the "rattlesnake." It can be brought in contact with the spokes near the hubs by pulling a string which is attached to the handle-bar, and it gives out a sound similar to an old-fashioned rattle carried by night watchmen.

THE WHEEL ABROAD.

THE WHEEL ABROAD.

Record time was excelled by H. Al Speechly in two events at the race meeting of the Lewisham Bicycle Club, held on the Crystal Palace track, London, July 3. In the first heat of the open mile-handicap Speechly got home in 2m. 34;s., the previous best time being credited to M.V.G. Webber on the same track (2m. 39;s.); and in the three-mile invitation handicap Speechly again got home first, covering the distance in 8m. 20;s., G. L. Hillier's record time being 8m. 32s., the previous best time made by an amateur. Unfortunately, however, the promoters of the meeting failed to appoint an official time-keeper.... On the same day, at the Belgrave Grounds, Leicester, Fred Lees won a one-mile professional handicap. He had fifteen yards' start and finished a dozen yards shead of James and Wright (who ran a dead-heat for the place), in 2m. 36s. Continuing on he covered the full mile in 2m. 38s., thus beating the English professional record... The National Cyclists Union five-mile amateur tricycling championship was raced for at Hampden Park, near Glasgow, Sootland, July 3, and was won by J. F. W. Allard by six yards, in 20m. 42/ss.; P. Furnivall second and G. Gatehouse third... Same day, the Irish 'cycling championship were decided at Ball's Bridge Grounds, Dublin, and were all won by R. J. McCredy, taking the mile-tricycle event in 3m. 14s., the mile bicycle in 2m. 47\s. s., and the four-mile bicycle in 11m. 54\s. s.

A SOMNAMBULISTIC 'CYCLER.—William Forbes of Morrisonville, Ill., is a wheelman of more than local celebrity. He is a somnambulist as well. A few nights ago he arose in his sleep, put on his hat and his night-clothes, bestrided his bicycle and struck out at a prize-winning rate through the streets of the slumbering village. He was headed off by the night watchman, who was not afraid of ghosts on wheels. With difficulty he was awakened from his dream as the champion wheelman of the world.

NEW TRACK AT SARATOGA.—A dispatch from Troy, N. Y., is responsible for the following: "A stock company is being formed here, with a capital of $25,000, for the purpose of building a new quarter. mile board bicycle track, with an elegant grand-stand and other conveniences, at Saratoga. Among the subscribers to the stock are members of the Troy Bicycle Club, W. M. Woodside and W. J. Morgan, the professionals. It is proposed to have the first races in August. Pools will be sold on all races."

in 1h. 32m., lowering the record two minutes.

Messis, Kreigels AND MayLand started from the corner of John street and Broadway, New York, July 24, at 1.30 p. M., and rode to Greenlawn, L. I., on bicycles, a distance of forty-three and three-quarter miles by their cyclometers, arriving there at 8.30 p. M., including a stop of fitteen minutes at Jamaica and thirty minutes at Jericho. They found the roads in beautiful condition until they arrived at Syosset, and then they were very hilly.

THE MONTREAL BICYCLE CLUB held their annual handicap road-race to Valois, Can., July 24. A half-dozen started, and the contest over the uneven and arduous course resulted thus: W. D. Bohm, scratch, first, in lh. 5m 7s.; J. H. Robertson, scratch, second, by two seconds; C. Pollock, 6m., third; G. Darling, 3m., fourth.

THE Jamaica 'Cycling Club was organized at Jamaica Plain, Boston, last week. Officers: Captain, F. E. Margot; lieutenant, F. C. Wellington; bugler, W. D. Eldridge.

JOHN S. PRINCE, on a bicycle, was beaten in a level five-mile race by the trotter Eva R. at Akron, O., July 20. Time, 16m. 9%s.

C. M. Brown rode a bicycle from Conneaut Lake to Greenville, Pa., eighteen miles, July 21, in the fairly good time of 1h. 20m. 6%s.

RACING AT ROCHESTER.

The Genesse Bicycle Club held their annual tournament at the Driving Park, Rochester, N. Y., July 22, the events resulting as follow:

CAPITAL BICYCLE CLUB.

The races given by this club at Athletic Park, Washington, D. C., July 23, were witnessed by a goodly crowd and proved quite interesting. Return: Lap race, mile and a quarter—Nichols first, in 4m. 194s; Mills second, 4m. 264s. Five miles, members—P. S. Brown first, in 16m. 374s; W. E. Crist second, 16m. 374s; P. L. Scuffle O. L. J. Barber O. Howell Stewart O. Crist held the lead until the eleventh lap, when he was passed by Brown. It was nip and tack between these racers until the thirteenth lap, when Crist passed Brown on crossing the line. Crist held the lead, hard pushed by Brown, until the fifteenth lap, when Brown again wrested it from him. When near the end of the eighteenth lap Crist made a splendid spurt, shot past Brown and led for an eighth of a mile. The race was now very exciting, as the men, on crossing the line at the nineteenth lap, were together, and on the last lap it was a hard contest for victory. Brown by a powerful spurt crossed the line and won by a fraction of a second. Half mile, boys—H. Parker won in 1m. 38s. Tandem-race, half-mile—Hanna and Barber first, in 1m. 474s;; Coburn and Suefferle second, Judges—Ed. Crampton, B. C. Tipton and G. F. Ruoff; timers, Max Hausman and Wash. Dodge; starter, H. S. Ower. A LONG TRIP IN A CATBOAT.

The trip of 1,800 miles upon which Capt. C. P. Kunhardt, the well-known yachting expert, started last Fall in a catboat, without a companion, has been completed, the boat and its solitary occupant arriving here last week, having come from Philadelphia by way of the Raritan Canal. The following particulars of the boat, its equipment and the seven months' voyage will prove interesting: Capt. Kunhardt, who is the author of the book entitled "Small Yachts," purchased the Coot with a view of attempting the voyage of 1,800 miles. It is only 21ft. on deck, 9ft. beam, and 2ft. 4in. draught. It hoists 21ft. of sail, with 21ft. boom. It has a cabin house 8ft. long, one side of which is fitted up for sleeping-apartments, and the other side for cooking, carrying provisions, and shelter from gales. An oil stove, with a few gallons of oil, furn shed him with heat through all the cold Winter months. He left New York on Nov. 15 and was towed through the Raritan Canal, a distance of forty miles, and was frozen up at Bordentown for four days. On reaching the Delaware he sailed to belaware. From there he sailed to Delaware City, thence through the Delaware leading the Delaware City, thence the rough the Delaware city, thence the rough the Delaware city, thence the called to the delaware city, thence the called to Delaware City, thence the called to Delaware City, thence the called to the called to the delaware city, thence the called to the cal frozen up at Bordentown for four days. On reaching the Delaware he sailed toward Windmill Island, where he made his first anchorage. From there he sailed to Delaware City, thence through the Delaware and Chesapeake Canal to Chesapeake Bay, spending Christmas alone in his vacht in Herring Harbor. He sailed around Chesapeake Bay, visiting all the harbors and towns, and from there went to Hampton Roads and took refuge in Hampton Creek for two weeks, owing to tremendous Winter gales. For two days he was afraid to move outside of his cabin, as the weather was so bitterly cold. When he was ready to sail he had to cut his way out with axes, and his rigging was a mass of ice. He then sailed to Norfolk and up the Elizabeth River to the Chesapeake and Albemarle Canai which leads into the North River, and thence to the Albemarle Sound, where he spent six weeks in cruising, putting in at most of the towns and investigating the prospects for game for the coming season. He then sailed to Croaton Sound, between Albemarle and Pimileo Sounds, and visited the towns and villages all around its banks until he reached Neuse River, up which he sailed 15 miles, and then passed up the Beaufort and towns and vinages all around its balks until he reached Neuse River, up which he sailed 15 miles, and then passed up the Beaufort and Newbern Canal until he reached Beaufort and Newbern Canal until he reached Beaufort his headquarters until June 8, when he commenced his return voyage over nearly the same course. He had nothing but light winds nearly all the way on the return journey. He says his expenses for food and everything did not average $3 per week. During his voyage he slept on shore only three times. These were when his oil ran short and to stay on board would have been sure death, owing to the extreme cold. During his journey his boat has been frozen solid in ice for weeks at a time, and he has encountered many vicissitudes. He had remarkably good health during the whole of the voyage and his weight increased thirty pounds.

THE CHAMPION'S MOVEMENTS.—J. A. Gaudaur will leave St. Louis for Boston July 30, and will there superintend the packing of his boats at Ruddock's for shipment to England. That builder has two shells which he is redecking and fixing over for the champion, and has received an order for a new one, which will be built upon the same lines and be an exact counterpart of the craft in which Jake won the championship. It will be finished about Aug. 15, and will be christend "City of St. Louis." A testimonial benefit will be given Gaudaur before his departure from the Mound City. The chsmpion and Hamm will sail from New York for England Aug. 3, taking three practice-boats with them.

THE WESTERN CANDE ASSOCIATION held their second annual meet at Ballast Island, near Put-in-Bay, Lake Erie, July 8 to 24. The most important event was the six-mile race, sailing twice around a three mile triangular course, for the Gardner Challenge Cup. The cup is a beautiful solid silver goblet, at the base of which is the figure of a cupid paddling his own cance. The winner this year was C. J. Bowsfield of Bay City, Mich. It was a hard-earned victery, as he was hotly pushed by Harry Gardner, Fred Pennewell and Orville Reol of Cleveland. The election resulted as follows: Commodore, George B. Ellard; vice, A. W. Kitchin; rear, Thos. P. Gaddiss, secretary and treasurer, J. O. Shiras.

ANOTHER LOVE VOYAGER.

Nearly two years ago John Traynor, a sailor, started in a dory from Bath, Me., to row across the Atlantic. The boat, which was thirteen feet long, was furnished and equipped for the voyage by Dr. R. D. Bibber of that city, at a cost of nearly $300. Since the unsuccessful attempt of Traynor, who is supposed to have been lost, as nothing has been heard of him since leaving Newfoundland where he put up for repairs from a collision with a schooner, Dr. Bibber has received many offers from seafaring men to row across if the doctor will furnish and equip the boat. None, however, applied to him in person until July 18, when a stout, well-built man walked into the doctor's office. He informed the doctor that his name was Richard Chandler, and that his native place was North Truro, N. S., where he was born on Sept. 23, 1840. Chandler said he had made up his mind to row across the ocean provided a boat of the same class and equipment as the one in which Traynor made the attempt could be furnished him. "Crossing the Atlantic is only a small part of the voyage," said the doctor. "After arriving in England you are to go by water to Norway and Sweden, thence to France, Spain and the Mediterranean; across the Indian Ocean and Southern Pacific to Australia; thence to Japan and China, and from there by steamer to San Francisco, then overland to the Mississippi, where the dory will be put into the water for you to row down that river to the gulf, and around to New York. It is a big undertaking, but I believe with the right boat and man it can be accomplished." Chandler said in reply that he felt confident of his sbility to accomplish the feat and was anxious to try provided the boat was furnished him. Chandler was told that it would be done The date of departure has not been decided upon. The doctor is of the opinion that it is rather late in the season to make the boat this year. Chandler, who is a single man, is anxious to start at once. The boat in which Chandler is to cross will be 12ft. long at the bo

TEEMER GOING IT ALONE.

As stated in last week's issue, the alleged crookedness developed at the time of the Bay Ridge regattaled to a rupture between John Teemer and Billy Germain, who retires from the management of the ex-champion a wiser but a sadder man to the stated extent of about $3,000. Since then both have appeared in print, each making charges reflecting upon the honesty of the other, and each denying the damaging allegations made against himself. The public will be very apt to believe that where there is so much smoke there must be sufficient fire to scorch both men. It would certainly seem, however, that Germain got all the worst of the bargain. Teemer was represented in a Pittsburg paper as saying that he had concluded not to go to England, as he could make more money by remaining here and rowing in regattas. If he did say so, and meant it, he changed his mind very suddenly, as on July 22 he made his appearance in Boston, having gone there to inspect his new boat at Ruddock's shop and make arrangements for the shipment of the craft—one of the lighest ever built—to England. He left for New York the following day, taking with him the new shell, and sailed for Liverpool on Tuesday, 27, accompanied by Wallace Ross and G. W. Lee. Ross took his single and double soull shells with him, and if a match can be made him and Teemer will row any other two for the championship.

CATRIGGED BOATS, under twenty feet in length, competed in a fifteen-mile race over the course of the Pavonia, N. J., Yacht Club July 26. A special meeting of this association was held July 21 in syracuse, N.Y. Umpire Crofoot was removed, the Utica and Buffalo Clubs alleging that he was incompetent. It was voted that the president of the local club shall have authority over the umpire, and may impose a fine in case the latter fails to comply with the rules. The complaints that Manager Bancroft had tampered with the players of the Syracuse and Buffalo nines were investigated, and the Rochester manager was exonerated. It was voted that the visiting club was entitled to its share of the admission-fee from every male adult on the grounds. The complimentary tickets issued by the home team must therefore be made good to the visiting club. The American Association coaching rules were adopted. Action on the protested Hamilton-Buffalo and Rochester-Toronto games was postponed until the next meeting, Aug. 6, in Toronto. It was voted that when two games are played in one day, only seven innings shall be played in the first one. It was decided that an umpire "must," instead of "shall," fine a player for improperly addressing him. Gardner, formerly of the Charlestons, has been filling third-base for the Brocktons, batting heavily. The New England League took back water very rapidly in the case of Cox, reinstating him Tuesday evening upon payment of the fine of $300. He is once more restored to grace, and is captaining and coaching the nine. Pretty easy penalty for so outrageous an act of insubordination! Cox, to his credit, be it said, is playing ball for all he is worth, and the lesson ought to have a very salutary effect. He is the man, be it remembered, who took the Detroit nine off the field in a sixth inning in Boston, taking umbrage at a decision of the umpire.

J. J. Egaps, ex. League umpire, is now officiating in the New England League.

Hadbourn evidently has no terror for the Phillies. They batted him in one inning for six hits, including a double and a triple, sending eight consecutive ballat to the out-field.

Tommy Bond has been released by the Brocktons. His arm was unequal to the demands made upon it.

The Haverhills have released Pitcher Willis and Manager Scies. John Irwin is managing and captaining the nine. Bresnahan has rejoined the team, and is playing first-base well.

The New England race is as close and exciting as ever. The attendance at games has not been worthy of the sport offered. Standing July 24: Haverhills, won 31, lost 23; Lawrence, won 28; lost 23; Portland, won 29, lost 27; Boston Blues, won 16, lost 38.

Harry Spence of the Portlands has again been unfortunate. He broke a finger July 22 at Portland, and will be laid up for some time.

BaltImore vs. Cincinnati.
In the game July 22 in Baltimore, Md., the hometeam presented three new men in the Conway brothers, a pitcher and catcher from the Lawrence Club, and O'Connell, late of Brockton. The visitors bunched ten safe hits in the first two innings, when they scored nine runs, six carned, and thus obtained a long lead. The Baltimores made a gallant up-hill fight and tied the score in the seventh inning, but errors by Sommer allowed the Cincinnatis to make the winning run before a man was out in the last half of the ninth inning.

Brooklyn vs. Louisville.

The Louisville team, with Ramsey in the box, played July 23, in Brooklyn, the result being the shutting out of the home-team. This was due to Ramsey's effective pitching, the Brooklyns only scoring two safe hits in the entire game. McTamany sprained his ankle badly in the fourth inning in sliding home, and he had to be carried off the field, Peoples taking his place.

A MEETING of the Hudson River League was held July 20 in Troy, N. Y. Umpire McLaughlin was laid off, and McDonald of this city was appointed to fill the vacancy. The rule governing the handling of the ball by the pitchers was modified. Now a pitcher must hold a ball in his left hand so that the umpire can see it, and when he makes any move to take with his right hand, or moves his feet, he must deliver the ball over the home-plate or to one of the bases. Otherwise it will be considered a balk.

bases. Otherwise it will be considered a balk.

ONE OF THE GAMES between the Rochester and Toronto Clubs has been protested on account of a decision by Umpire Hoover. McKean hit to Pitcher Emslie, who threw wildly to first. McKean ran over the base, and, turning to the right, saw that the ball had gone wild and started for second without touching first again. He ran to third and Hoover declared him out because in starting for second he turned to

In a recent came in St. Paul, Minn., Doran of the Eau Claire Club batted a ball over the left-field fence and ran very slowly around the bases. In the meantime one of the home-team went outside and fielded time one of the home-team went outside and helded the ball in to the home-plate in ample time to put out the base-runner. The run, however, was counted, establishing the fact that a ball batted over the fence legally is necessarily a home-run, and a base-runner cannot be put out on the play.

cannot be put out on the play.

It rook fifteen innings to settle the contest between the Newburyport and Manchester Clubs July 20 on the former's grounds. The home-team tied the score in the ninth inning, each club made one run in the twelfth, and the Manchesters finally won by a score of 9 to 7. Dunn, the catcher of the Manchesters, put out twenty-one men and assisted three times.

Sunday newspapers have printed this: "Welch's catch of a fly on Saturday, July 3, without moving out of his tracks from the time the ball left the bat, was probably the most remarkable thing ever witnessed on the ball-field." The so-called "feat" is performed by outfielders almost every day, and we imagine that Welch has been "kidding" the journalistic fraternity.

A large number of people visited Washington Park, Brooklyn, July 21, to see the home-team play off a postponed game with the Metropolitans. Only three of the Mets, however, were on hand, and the game was not played. It is doubtful, however, if it could have been played, owing to the muddy condition of the grounds.

CHARLES GETZEIN of the Detroit Club was heavily CHARLES GETZEIN of the Detroit Club was heavily fined for allowing the Kansas City team to make ten runs off his pitching in the eleventh inning of the game on July 21. This fact plainly proves that the management of the Detroit Club have yet much to learn about baseball. It is, however, an economical way to run a club.

In HAVERHILL, Mass., July 22, the home-team defeated the Boston Blues by a score of 7 to 6 after an exciting contest of twelve innings.

AT THE ADJOURNED meeting of the New England League held July 20 in Haverhill, Mass., Frank B. Cox of the Lawrence Club was reinstated on payment of a fine of $300. The remaining players of the Lawrence Club were also heavily fined, and it was voted that the game awarded to the Newburyports be played over at some time to be mutually agreed upon. John J. BRODIE TAKES A DROP, BEFORE AND AFTER HIS SAFE DESCENT FROM THE BROOK-LYN BRIDGE.

The name of Stephen Brodie will be handed down to posterity as that of the first man who accomplished the perilous feat of descending, unsupported, through space from the Brooklyn Bridge into the East River, and survived the foolhardy experiment. He accomplished it on the afternoon of Friday, July 23, without previous announcement, and the intelligence that he had performed the self-imposed task was a surprise to all except the very few who had been intrusted with the secret of Steve's purpose, or who chanced to see his figure as it shot downwards from the lofty structure. It appears that Brodie for some time past had been contemplating the attempt mainly as a means of making himself suddenly famous, with all that that implies. It is said that he had practised for the feat by taking a few quiet drops from High Bridge into the Harlem by night, but this is more than doubtful. He finally made up his mind to put his plan into execution on the day mentioned, and, as a precaution against the possible damaging effects of forcible contact with the water, he had swathed his body with bandages and inserted under his inner clothing a quantity of cottonwaste and soft rags. He wore his ordinary dress and had tied the bottoms of his pants tightly about his ankles. After Paul Butler, Jerry Kane and Tim Breunan had put out into the river in a small boat, to be in readiness to pick up the venturesome Fourth-warder after he rose to the surface, and the few others "in the know" had gathered on Dover street dock, Brodie and a friend, named Waterman, after fortifying themtempt mainly as a means of making himself and a friend, named Waterman, after fortifying themselves with a couple of drinks, boarded a truck crossing the bridge, no one suspecting their intention. At a point about 250 feet beyond the tower, at a spot where the structure is about 120 feet above the water, Brodie jumped to the roadway, threw off his coat climbed over the iron lattice work. spot where the structure is about 120 feet above the water, Brodie jumped to the roadway, threw off his coat, climbed over the iron lattice work which protects the roadway, clambered down and hung by his hands from one of the iron girders which run along below the bridge. Policeman Lally saw the act and made a rush for him, but too late to prevent the attempt. As soon as he was sure of his balance Brodie, who faced up stream, let go and shot downward, straight as a plumb-line. It is said that during the swift descent he brought his arms from above his head till his hands were clenched tightly against his breast, while as he struck the water his feet were slightly apart and his knees were slightly bent. After a few seconds immersion, the anxious watchers were rejoiced to see Brodie reappear apparently uninjured, and, blowing the water from his mouth, he commenced to swim on his back. His friends in the boat immediately pulled towards him. Brennan managed the oars; Buller and Kane jumped overboard and swam towards the hero: Butler almost reached him, but his assistance was not needed, and Brodie and Kane clambered into the boat and pulled away for the Bridge pier. A couple of stiff applications of stimulating fluid made him feel all right, and when he clambered onto the pier he showed no ill effects of his drop. Here he fell into the custody of a policeman, and was hurried off to the Oak-street station. Dr. White was summoned from the Chambers-street Hospital. By this time Brodie was beginning to show unmistakable signs of inebriation. He is said to have been sober at the time he jumped, but the stimulants poured into him afterwards had taken a striking effect. As the doctor was examining him, Steve writhed and shouted as if in great agony, but the physician finally pronounced him uninjured, save for a few bruises on the chest, which were probably made while he was clambering into the boat. In the meantime Tim Brennan arrived at the station with dry clothes for Brodie, and was promptly arrested as an accomplice i off his coat, climbed over the iron lattice work success were made out against broone. Brennan was charged with being Brodie's accomplice. Jimmy Oliver's brother, Frank, was their counsel, and Brodie being too drunk to answer any questions, he was locked up, Brennan being bailed out by his employer. On the following morning Brodie was arraigaed for examination and required to furnish bail in $1,000 to await trial on a charge of attempted suicide. Alderman Divver became his bondsman. suicide. Alderman Divver became his bondsman. "Steve" Brodie is a native of the Sixth Ward, having been born in Baxter street July 3, 1862. Since the age of eleven years he has had to hustle for a living. This he gained first by selling newspapers around Park Row, and afterwards by blacking boots, till 1879, when he was seized with the pedestrian fever, then raging. He became quite notorious by reason of a twenty-four-hour trial-race he ran at the Newsboys Lodging-house Feb. 14, 15, of that year, being credited with covering ninety miles. This was a big performance for a boy, and the exhibitions which he subsequently gave in the old Fifth Regiment Armory on Hester street, doing an alleged 250 miles in three days, and elsewhere in this city, made his name well known, and secured him backers to put him into the go-as-you-please race for the United States championship at Madison-square Garden in April, 1879. The best he could do then was 375 miles in the week. He afterwards appeared in pedestrian contests in this and other cities with varying success, never attaining to special prominence in that line, and when the craze died out he resumed business as a bootblack and newsvender, but on a more pretentious scale, having until recently a stand in the Mills Building. He is married and has two or three children. The portrait which we present above is from a photograph taken in 1879. He has since not altered much in appearance.

THE swimming races for the championship of the New York Athletic Club, at one-hundred yards and a half-mile, are to take place on the Harlem River, from the boat-house, Aug. 7, at 4 p. M.

JAMES GRIFFI'S two defeats by C. T. Enright have decided him to retire from rowing for the present year. The Buffalo sculler seems to be lacking in the virtue of perseverance.

virtue of perseverance. FRANK HOLDEN easily defeated Michael Gorman in five-mile race, for $100 a side, at Salem, Mass.

THE NATIONAL REGATTA.

A very successful fixture was the annual regatta of the National Association of Amateur Oarsmen, held on the Hudson, near Albany, N. Y., July 20, 21. The grand-stand, erected on Pleasure Island, held a large number of spectators each day, while many more viewed the racing from tugboats, etc. The weather on the first day was fine. and the water smooth, but on the second rain fell. and the water was quite rough. The races were interesting, the majority of the finishes being close. The mile-and-a-half straightaway course was flagged throughout, and the current was swift.

interesting, the majority of the finishes being close. The mile-and-a-half straightaway course was flagged throughout, and the current was swift. A return follows:

Junior single-scalls.—First heat: M. F. Quigley, Institute B. C., Newark, N. J., first, in Sm. 50s.; Thos. Hield, Pioneer B. C., Brooklyn, second; B. J. Mullins, Albany R. C., third; O. W. Dyer, Crescent B. C., Boston, collided with a buoy at the quarter-mile and capsized, swimming ashore. Quigley won easily. Second heat: James L. Berry, Bolling Springs A. A., Rutherford, N. J., finished first, in Sm. 58s.; but claim of foul against him was allowed, the heat being given to H. Howland, Cornell University Navy; Ed. Hinton, Union Springs B. C., second, in 9m. 6½s.; W. J. Gugerty, Cohoes R. C., third. Third heat: John F. Dailey, Bradford B. C., Cambridgeport, Mass., first, in Sm. 47½s.; James L. Nolan, Elizabeth B. C., Portsmouth, Va., second, Sm. 47½s.; Elmer Van Benthuysen, Amber (N. Y.) B. C., third, Sm. 52s.; William J. Gleason, Albany R. C., fourth, having lost all chance of the heat by rowing far out of his true course. Fourth heat: F. G. McDougall, New York A. C., first, in Sm. 49½s.; M. Shea, Don Amateur R. C., Toronto, Ont., second, 9m. 3s.; L. S. De Zouche, Laureate B. C., Troy, third, 9m. 13s.; J. F. Hill, Crescent B. C., Boston, did not finish. The race between McDougall and Shea was quite exciting, and the finish would have been closer had Shea not run afoul of a steamer. Final heat: Howland, first, in 10m. 8s.; Quigley second, 10m. 9½s.; McDougall third, 10m. 25s.; Dailey did not finish. Had Quigley kept a straight course he might have won. The winner rowed a game race.

Senior single-sculls—First heat: Edward J. Mulcahy, Mutual B. C., Albany, first, in Sm. 21½s.; John D. Ryan, Bradford B. C., Cambridgeport, Mass., second, by over two lengths; Peter Suyder, Mutual B. C., Albany, first, in Sm. 21½s.; John D. Ryan, Bradford B. C., Cambridgeport, Mass., second, 8m. 53s. The former led from the signal, and at the half was a length ahead, the r rell back, won handliy.

Senior four-oared shells—Fairmount Rowing Association, Philadelphia, W.H. Brownell (bow), N. Hayes, H. A. Root, J. H. Boyer (stroke), first, in 8m. 14;s.; Argonaut Rowing Club, Toronto, R. McKay (bow), Oliver Morphy, A. G. Thompson, J. W. Hogg (stroke), second, 8m. 7½s.; Laureate Boat Club, Troy, A. W. Harrington Jr. (bow), F. S. Holly, W. T. Williamson, E. B. Williamson (stroke), third, 8m. 22s.; Nautilus Rowing Club, Hamilton, Ont., William Wark (bow), Charles Furlong, Donald Irvine, D. Donohue (stroke), fourth. The Fairmounts made the best start, assumed the lead and were not afterwards deprived of it, although the Argonauts made a determined struggle, and at one time a foul seemed imminent. The Laureates were at no time better than third, while the Nautilus four collided with the third of a mile buoy, and were thereafter last.

Double-scult shells—Delaware B. C., Chicago, J. F. Korf and W. Weinand (stroke), first, in 9m. 184;s.; Albany R. C., Thos, H. Monahan and Martin F. Monahan (stroke), second; Crescent B. C., Boston, J. F. Cumming and D. J. Murphy (stroke), third; Laureate B. C., Troy, C. Hopkins and H. A. Viets (stroke), last. This race, contrary to expectation, was between the Delawares and Albanians throughout, and the victory was gained only by hard rowing. The Crescents, who were much fancied, were hindered by a tow.

Pair-oared race—First heat: Eureka B. C., Newark, F. Freeman and J. Weldon (stroke), first, in 10m. 5;s.; New York A. C., G. D. Phillips and M. T. Hard (stroke), second, by two lengths; Atalanta B. C., New York, E. C. Stewart and W. W. Smith (stroke), did not finish. Second heat: Excelsior B. C., Detroit, J. H. Clegg and F. B. Standish (stroke), first, in 9m. 37s.; Mutual B. ENGLISH OPINION OF HANLAN.

ENGLISH OPINION OF HANLAN.

The acting editor of The London Referee ("Pondragon" is on a visit to this country), in commenting upon the entries for the international regatta on the Thames in August, thus voices public opinion in England concerning the unexpected absence of Hanlan's name from the list, and the lack of straightforwardness characterizing his course since Beach arrived in England:

Hanlan's tailure to act up to his tall talk will come as an admission of weakness which it is hard to get over. The only way of explaining his abstention from the affair, and letting the weeks and months pass by without bringing Beach to book for a match, is to accept the general tone of American criticism as correct. Teemer, his severest critic, has declared again and again that the exchampion did not want to race, and would not come to England for this engagement, the Cresurer Joid. Teemer's announced intention to compete is plain enough. Hanland does not intend to be on in that scene. What is the obvious conclusion? Assuming that Itanian has lost his proton as was a fact he has gone back, but wants to proton a was a fact he has gone back, but wants to proton a way and the has gone back, but wants to proton a way and the has gone back, but wants to proton a way and the has gone back, but wants to proton a way and the has gone back, but wants to proton a way and the has gone back, but wants to proton a way and the has gone back, but wants to the proton and was a fact that he has gone back, but wants to the country of the regatta, the sculler in whom we all recognized a phenomentally great artist will have lost his place forever. His business of late will be proved to have been all bouncing, and, as he won't put up, the only decent course is to shut up.

A Massachuserts newspaper tells the old story of Isaiah Thomas, who used to make almanacs. When he was preparing the one for 1780 one of his boys asked him what he should put opposite the "13th of July," Mr. Thomas, being engaged, replied: "Anything, anything," The boy, thus ordered, returned to the office and set: "Rain, hail and snow." The country was all amazement when the day arrived, for it actually rained, hailed and snowed violently.

LACROSSE.

At last advices from abroad arrangements had been perfected for the departure from Liverpool, Eng. July 31, by the Cunard steamer Etruria, of the international lacrosse feam who are to represent Ireland in a series of matches in the States and Canada. The trip has been brought about through the efforts of that public-spirited citizen and patron of sport, Erastus Wiman, president of the National Lacrosse Association, who guaranteed the sum of $1,500 for expenses. The team will be composed of thirteen players and a field-captain, and the names of the players who had agreed to come are: M. Macdonald (Arils), goal-keeper; A. H. Dill (Down A. SONS OF ST. GEORGE.

The Eastern division of the Sons of St. George held their annual games at Broadway and Washington Parks, Brooklyn, on Wednesday, July 21. The weather was stormy and the attendance light. The track here is fourteen laps to the mile, and, as usual with the public tracks, was in very poor condition, rain of the morning having been allowed to form puddles, and the only pretense of getting the path ready was to brush off the water and dump two or three loads of sand along the sides, which it would have been better without. THE ST. PAUL LACROSSE CLUB has elected a new set THE ST. PAUL LACROSSE CLUB has elected a new set of officers, and the club's team will at once go into practice regularly three times each week, with a Sunday game. The intention is to get the team into first-class shape, and then send it to New York to bring back the championship cup. The members of the club who participated in the recent contest with the New York Club at White Bear Lake feel that they have been most unjustly criticised by some of the New York papers, concerning the part they took in the encounter they had with the visiting team, and the encounter they had with the visiting team, and think that the latter were the real aggressors, and that much they did was actually in self-defense. Thus writes our St. Paul correspondent, who adds that after the game there was no ill-feeling against Cluff or any other member of the New York team, and the statement that the visitors were afraid of an attack after the game is unfounded. If anything of the kind had been premediated, there were too many gentlemen present to allow it to occur.

San Francisco, Cal., July 27.

BALDWIN THEATRE .- "Odette" was presented evening of July 26 by Modjeska and her company. The engagement, which closes at the end of the present week, will be followed Aug. 2 by A. M. Palmer's Madison-square Co., who will play four weeks, opening in "Our Society."

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.-Last week's bill will be done until July 28, when "John Hardy" will replace "The Last Days of Pompeii." Business fell off during the latter part of last week. The Eden Musee has not set the people wild as yet, and patronage was materially less during the past few days than at the opening.

days than at the opening.

BUSH-STREET THEATRE.—Baird's Minstrels opened 26 for a week. The house held a largualdience, and the performance was satisfactory. Margaret Mather will begin her month's engagement Aug. 2. She will be first seen in "Romeo and Juliet." "Leah," "Lady of Lyons," "The Honeymoon" and "Peg Woffington" will be done during the engagement.

ALCAZAR THEATRE.—Kate Castleton opened 26 in "Crazy Patch" before a large and enthusiastic audience. The company was strengthened by the addition of Charley Reed, Eddie Foy and Robert Aginton, the skater. "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is to follow.

BALDWIN THEATRE.—Modjeska's engagement has not proved the success anticipated. "Nadjezda." done the opening week, was too broad in its intimations to be wholly in accord with the tastes of the patrons of this house. "Mary Stuart" was put on 19, with better results. During the week "Camille," "Adrienne Lecouvreur" and "Donna Diana" will be done, with Modjeska in the titleroles. The benefit to David Belasco 18 was a success.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE .- "The Last Days of Pom california Theatre.—"The Last Days of Pompeii" was produced 19 in a style reminiscent of palmy-flush times. The scenery was beautiful, and the mechanical effects called forth merited praise. The theatre was crowded on the opening night, and success was emphatically stamped upon the piece. The much-talked-of Eden Musee was opened 19 to the patrons of this theatre, one admission entitling the bearer to the performance in the theatre as well as to the Musee. The arrangements and the realistic figures were so well done that the verdict was that it will be a decided and lasting attraction to the house, besides adding to its business. McKee Rankin will be succeeded in the management of the house by J. R. Gesmer. Mr Rankin will soon leave for the East to fulfill en gagements in the spectacular production of "Macbeth."

Salt Lake City.—At the Salt Lake Theatre, John T. Raymond, supported by a first-class company, begins an engagement of two nights July 23 in "The Magistrate" and "For Congress." Sanger's Company, in "A Bunch of Kays." played their return engagement July 16 to a fair-sized and well-pleased audience.

TEXAS.

El Paso.—Geo. B. Holland has again the management of the National Theatre, and this time he says he intends to run it through a season of six months, make or lose. He is an old showman, and claims to have money to back his experience. They have a very good force at present. They are Exast. Clair, May Murratt, Cora Noville, Ruby Grant, Little Kittie Weddell (Indite a favorite). John Coburn, Harry Holmes, Billy Barker and others. Closed: Howard and Alton. This week they do Coburn's "Scenes of the Border."

KENTUCKY.

KENTUCKY.

Louisville.—At Harris' Museum this week, "Proved True," by Mortimer Murdoch, with Jessie Dean and James Neill in the leads. 'The Tide of Fortune," which held the boards last week, played to only fair business. The latter company closed season July 24, after a successful run of fourteen weeks.

The CORONATION OF A ROSE" delighted a large audience on the steamer Music on an excursion down the river evening of 21.

NIGHTLY CONCERTS are given at Phoenix Hill Park to large audiences.

PREPARATIONS are being made for the production of "The Last Days of Pompeii" during the month of August.

VIRGINIA.

VIRGINIA.

Norfolk.—Jos. K. Strasburger, manager of Herzog's, denies the rumored opening of the Academy Aug. 2. He says he will open about Sept. 10.

Lynchburg.—The "Breadwinner" Co., espected July 19, 20, 21, did not show up. Nothing is booked or expected until Aug. 16, when Wilson & Rankin's Minstrels opens the season, to be followed rapidly by othersMr. O'Neil, in charge of the Skirmishing Brigade of the Doris Show, arrived July 23, and put up preliminary announcements of that show's coming. Sept. 14. He was expecting opposition Nothing has yet been done on the Holcombe Hall improvement, though it is rumored that Manager Emerson has booked 37 attractions.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Austin's Pavilion.—Lilly Clay's "Adamless Eden"

Co. opened July 26.

Austin & Stone's Museum.—This place closes 31

AUSTIN & STONE'S MUSEUM.—This place closes 31 for four weeks. It is to be decorated, enlarged and improved in "a thousand different ways."

REITH & BATCHELLER'S MUSEUM.—Specialists this week: Higgins Brothers, Eliza Percival, Don Fielding, Albert Virto, Minnie Dixon, Sheehan and Wood, Truro Fox, Crosley and Wray, John Barker and the stock.

WORLD'S MUSEUM.—These are the performers his week: Arthur and Jennie Dunn, George A. Booker, Maud Leigh, Will O. Petrie, Maggie Elise, Mart Healey, Ella Saunders, Charles Schilling, Parker Twin Bros., Charles A. Mack, Allen Adenna, Lizzie Dot and the Yankee Whittler. Business has not been startling here by any means.

New Bedford.—In Liberty Hall, July 15, local amateurs gave a variety entertainment for the benefit of William Townsend, formerly one of their number, an acrobatic performer, which netted $390.....

The Acushnet-street Railway Company has put up a tent with stage near Clark's Cove. On the ground are 200 chairs, with circus-seats around the edges for 800. It was opened 25 with a sacred concert by local artists, and will be known as the Summer Pavilion. In it the Gilbert Opera Co. gives eight performances of "The Mikado," 26-31......F. C. Bancroft, who has taken a lease of the Opera-house and Liberty Hall, has renamed the latter the People's Theatre and appointed Arthur S. Foster manager.

Cottage City.—Frank E. Winslow's skating-rink at Oak Bluffs has had a stage, scenery, etc., put in, and is rechristened The Casino. The seats are movable, so that it can still be used for skating-and dancing. Tannehill's 'Fun on the Bristol' Company July 19-21, and 'Muldoon's Picine,' 22-24, had light business. No professional theatre or opera company in the history of Cottage City has ever paid much more than expenses. The Casino will give better facilities than have existed before.

Lawrence.—Lilly Clay's 'Adamless Eden' Co. gave a good entertainment at the Opera house July 22. The regular season opens here on Aug. 30 with Thatcher, Primrose & West's Minstrels.....Joseph Flynn, for five years lithographer and foreman of seenic-effects, was selected by Manager Merrill as treasurer of the Opera-house—a well-merried promotion.....T. A. Sweeney will be in advance of Murray & Murphy's "Irish Visitors' next season.

Minneapolls.—Another effort is to be made to maintain Summer opera at the Leland Rink. Richard B. Belgrave, representing the American Opera Co. of New York is in the city arranging details. The Leland has been leased, and will be rechristened the Casino. It is proposed to open July 28 or 30 a season of light opera, under the management of J. R. English of New York and Fred Dixon of Chicago. The company includes Harry Brown, his wife, Lillie West; Mr. Belgrave, leading tenor; Jessie Hatcher, Bertha Fricke and others. They will open in "Chimes of Normandy," and play two operas a week. It is proposed to improve the acoustic properties of the building by stretching wires. Prices will range from 15 to 35 cents.

St. Paul.—Sackett & Wiggins' Seventh-street from 15 to 35 cents.

St. Paul.—Sackett & Wiggins' Seventh-street Museum has these attractions on the stage week of July 26: Sig. Lowands, John T. Kelly in his comedy "The Man from Galway." De Barr Brothers and Jeppe and Fannie Delano. Business last week fell off some, owing to excessively hot weather, but it was still good and paying. ... The work upon the front of the Grand Opera-house progresses finely, and is nearing completion.

ILLINOIS.

TILINOIS.

Chicago.—A. M. Palmer's Madison-square Co. closed their seven weeks' engagement at McVicker's Theatre July 24 and left for San Francisco, where they open next week. The management is pleased with the manner in which "Jim the Penman" was received. Foote's Millennial Minstrels open their season at McVicker's 26.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—The Japanese Village has five weeks yet to stay.

MADISON - STREET THEATRE. — Kellar continues. The Chicago Home Minstrels open Aug. 16.
GRENIER'S ALCAZAR.—C. A. GARduer'S CO. did "Karl the Peddler" last week. Amy Gordon and a company appear in comic-opera this week.
THE THERE PANORAMAS are doing fairly well.
THE MUSEUMS.—At Stanhope & Epstean's, this week: O. A. Babel, the cowboy-pianist. At Kohl & Middleton's Southside, last week: The Telescopeboy, Montana Bill, Musical Meteors, etc.
BARNUM'S CIRCUS was on the lake-front all last week.

Middleton's Southside, last week: The Telescopeboy, Montana Bill, Musical Meteors, etc.

RARNUM'S CIRCUS was on the lake-front all last week.

PARK THEATRE.—The people this week are the Stewarts (Dick and Hattie), Gilbert Sarony, Carroll and Nealy, Leonard and Mullen, Carter the Jap, Annie Dunn, Maggie Bursell, the Thompsons, Irvin Bush and Maud Howard.

Sackett & Wiodins, I hear, are to open a museum and theatre at the corner of Halstead and Congress streets, Sept. 6. They will give two performances daily, at prices ranging from 25 to 75 cents.

IN BRIER.—A petition was filed 22 by G. S. Pomeroy, receiver of the John B. Jeffrey Printing Co., representing that D. K. Tenney, as trustee for the judgment creditors, had offered $28,000 for the book accounts due, and asking that he be allowed to accept the offer. Judge Shepard entered an order directing that the offer be accepted, unless objections are filed in five days..... Duncan C. Ross on 30 charged that he and other athletes had been lured to this city by false pretenses of the World's Pastime Co., and threatened suit, claiming that $1,500 was due him for exhibitions. On 23 Manager J.W. Ryckman of the company, as well as its treasurer, was reported missing, and the enraged athletes were talking of speedy criminal proceedings. The venture was supposed to be well backed. Ross says President McNeill claimed to have lost $40,000 on the affair, but this statement is not generally credited. On 22 an attachment suit was begun by Maurice Wendell, a creditor, against the company for $500. A writ was placed in a deputysheriff shands to attach the receipts of the company in the hands of the I. C. R. R.... Mabel De Babian (Mrs.
W. Paul Bown), who was in the recent 'Erminie' production at the Casino, has long suspected her husband of infidelity. A year or so ago, I believe, she tried to kill herself at Long Branch, so melancholy did she become on Mr. B.'s account. Sunday, R, she tried a novel plan to test his faithfulness.
She marked with ink the white sock

Aug. 30.....Margaret Mather's season at the Columbia will commence Oct. 4 and last two weeks.

Elgin.—The Du Bois Opera-house was dark 'the past week. Manager Allen is fast filling time for the coming season, with planty of applications. McIntyre & Heath's Minstrels will be here Aug. 13..... The King. Burk & Co. Circus are well advertised for 30...... Thinking this may be of interest to the dramatic profession who intend visiting our city this season, I will state that the Elgin National Watch Co., who employ 2,000 hands and who have a monthly pay-roll of $120,000, have adopted a new system of paying their employes on the 10th, 20th and 30th of the month, instead of every 12th, as has been the old custom for the last twenty years. This new plan will hereafter enable their employes to al ways have ready cash in their pockets; this will also enable Elgin to be one of the best and most popular show towns in the Northwest.

Quincy.—From the list of companies booked, we are going to have some very fine entertainments the coming season. The season will open with Katie Putnam Aug. 24, in C. T. Dazy's play "Ermathe Waif." A few of the many attractions are Kellar, Louis James and Marie Wainwright, Mrs. D. P. Bowers, Kate Castleton, Chas. Pope, Mattie Vickers, F. B. Warde, Conried's Opera Co., McCaull's Opera Co., "Theodora." "Bunch of Keys." and "Rag Baby." Dr. P. A. Marks, Opera-house manager, tells me that the number of attractions will be less, but of a better class than last season..... Thos. Grimes, the gentlemanly Opera-house doorkeeper, has accepted a position as stage-carpenter the coming season with Mattie Vickers' Co.

Streator.—A. C. Croswell has retired from the management of the Opera-house. John E. Williams ral companies through New England this Fall.

Pawtucket.—The Delavan Dime Show returned here July 19-24, after an absence of five weeks, and were greeted with crowded houses. Mile. Belle Laverne of the Laverne Sisters, serialists, has been unable to appear for the past week, owing to a severe illness. The lady is fast recovering. Mile. Carlotta Laverne is at present performing her aerial-act with her husband, Wm. Francis.

Mesterly.—Frank A. Robbins' Circus spread its canvas in this city July 29. In the afternoon the tent was well filled, and in the evening it was packed. It was about the largest audience that ever assembled under a circus canvas in Westerly, and one of the best shows that ever played here.

Deatsnows that ever played here.

Narragansett Pier.—J. B. Pond's Summer Concert Co. opened their season here, with this roster: Carlotts Natale, soprano; Julie De Ruyther, contratic; Ross David, tenor; C. E. Fratt, accompanis; Ollie Torbett, violinist; T. C. Lembard, director.

DELAWARE.

closed their seven weeks' engagement at McVicker's Theatre July 24 and left for San Francisco, where they open next week. The management is pleased with the manner in which "Jim the Penman" was received. Foote's Millennial Minstrels open their season at McVicker's 26.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—The Japanese Village has five weeks yet to stay.

HOOLEY'S THEATRE.—"Evangeline" entered its ninth week 26.

CASINO.—"The Little Duke" was sung last week by Louise Lester, Harry Brown, Marie Roe and with the manner in which "Jim the Penman" was received. Foote's Millennial Minstrels open their season at McVicker's 26.

COLUMBIA THEATRE.—The Japanese Village has five weeks yet to stay.

HOLEY'S THEATRE.—"Evangeline" entered its ninth week 26.

CASINO.—"The Little Duke" was sung last week by Louise Lester, Harry Brown, Marie Roe and others, to fair business. This week, return of the "Maid of Belleville" Co.

— "Not too bad, but just bad enough" and similar expressions are the prevailing London "gag" on street and stage. Lionel Brough made it popular there, and he is getting credit as its originator. But it is seven years old to us. It was used in John J. McNally's "Revels" in '79, and was afterwards done to death by W. A. Mestayer in "The Tourists." It seems to be not too new, but just new enough, for London.

— Adele Cornalba, the danseuse, is at Long Branch, N. J.

— George Riddle is giving a series of farewell read-ings at the Summer resorts—Newport, Bar Harbor, Richfield Springs, Chautauqua and Narragansett Pier included.

Hot Springs.—Quite a number of amateurs and members of the profession met at the Opera-house July 19 to arrange a programme for a benefit for the relief of J. H. Dolan, formerly property-man of Hamlin's Grand. Chicago, who is here in a destitute and helpless condition. The entertainment will be given 23. Among those who have volunteered are James R. Field, manager of the Arion Bellringers; Prof. Morbach, leader of the orchestra at the New Grand, Louisville, Ky.; W. G. Maurice, Frank Myers, Joe Davis and others. The battery of the Hot Springs Baseball Club will appear in Grecian staurary, and several amateurs will also assist..... The season at Opera-house will open some time in September.

MAGGIE NICHOLS, whose death was chronicled last week, was forty years old, and had been in the circus and the variety professions since childhood. She was the oldest of the Antonio girls, and was very expert as a slack-wire performer.

Everkett Sylvesters, contortionist, is at his Jeffersonville, Ind., home for the Summer.

Howorst's Hiersking Co. recently closed a successful season at Prescott, Can., having made a tour of forty-two weeks through the South, West and Canada. This completed the twenty-fourth annual tour of this company under the management of John Howorth. Bryon O'Lynne and J. F. Fenton have been re-engaged for the coming season, which opens Aug. 30. Fred P. Wilson will again be the business representative, with John Lewis as assistant.

HARRY W. SEMON withdraws from the management of the Hume & Wesley Co. July 24, at the close of their Harlem engagement. He has not yet completed his arrangements for the Fall and Winter.

C. E. Kohl of Kohl & Middleton has returned to Chicago from Oconomowoc, Wis., where his family is spending the Summer, and where he has been making wonderful catches of black bass.

Phil Webber of Cleveland, O., known in minstrel circles, was in the city last week, on a pleasure visit.

CLARK & RATKGAN's FEMALE MINSTRELS open season Aug. 30 in Chicago. The Four Gillettes will be of the party, as also will Maggie Bursel, Agnes Atherton, Mand Huth, Mand Gilbert and Master Harry Pink and Emma Moulton, club-swingers. They play thirty weeks.

Charles Diamond, the Cragg Family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Watson, and Ramza and Arno were all working together at the London, Eng., Pavilion recently. Mr. Diamond, "Pony" Moore, Jenny Hill, Charles Phoite, Will Riley, Mile. Ross, Agent Warner, Charles Boisset and others were on "The Canterbury Coach" July 4, to celebrate America's natal day. They had speeches and a good time generally, and Jenny Hill (who is coming here next year, be it remembered) was generous enough to say that English artists had learned a good deal in the way of neatness and style from Americans, and that those English entertainers who had been to America had come back artistically all the better for the journey. Then Agent Warner, who doubtless forgot all about his ten per cent. commissions, suggested that perhaps there had been too much of an invasion from "the other side," and Mr. Moore reminded him that with the best troupe of English variety performers ever sent to America he had lost the nice little sum of £8 000. After which all hands hurrahed for America. It was a great day.

F. K. Wallack, of the late Magee, Hopkins & Ross "Boy Scout" Co., writes that the claims of the people for salary are in the hands of Lawyer E. E. Price. Mr. Wallace, in his lengthy letter, stremuonsly denies all Mr. Hoss' statements in last week's CLIPPEL. Here we shall beg leave to drop the matter, all sides of the story having bees told.

The noise of an adjoining orchestrion so disturbed Paul Bauer of West Brighton Beach that on July 23 Justice Cullen of the Kings County Supreme Court granted an injunction restraining Mr. Culver, who owns the orchestrion, from using the organ with the 'loud stops.' Thus Mr. Bauer has abated, though not entirely silenced, his enemy's noise.

Lillian J. Hanley, the three-months-old child of Billy and Lizzie Hanley, died in Brooklyn, N. Y., last week, as Allie Alden writes us. She adds that Billy Hanley passed away ten days previously, and that Lizzie Hanley, who is in distress, would be glad to hear from her friends.

He returns in September to commence his eighth season with the Moore & Burgess Minstrels, St. James Hall, London.

PAT REHLA's rejoinder to Robert Nelson's denial of a contract with the Reilly & Wood Co. is at hand. Mr. Reilly asserts that Mr. Nelson made a verbal contract, in the presence of H. A. Thomas and the latter's bookkeeper, but that he delayed his signature to a wriften contract, and subsequently sailed for Mexico, to join the Orrins. Mr. Reilly adds that he has put the case in his lawyers' hands, and that they will fight it to the bitter end. Bobby Gaylor is another who is claimed exclusively by Mr. Reilly. Siekhan and Hulmes are with the May Adams Co., on the New England circuit. Fishing is their daytime amusement, they write us, and Miss Hulmes seems to be "stuck" on the sport.

CHARLES MORELAND, of Moreland and Nixon, hopes that his fractured knee-cap will mend enough to let him out in a week or two. He and his partner are at Quincy, Ill., for the Summer.

JAMES THOMNSON died at Fort Worth, Tex., July 21. Charles G. Knight, manager of the Fashion Theatre, that city, informs us that brain-fever was the cause. The deceased was popular as a comedian and impersonator of old negroes, and had confined himself almost altogether to the South. Among professionals he was held in decided favor. John W. Thompson, the variety manager of Dallas, Tex., and the deceased were brothers. The remains, placed in a handsome metallic case, were forwarded to Dallas, there to be placed in the family let in the cemetery. CHARLES T. ELLIS AND CLARA MOORE are resting at Asbury Park, N. J.

HERR SCARIA, the basso, died of paralysis of the brain July 22, near Dresden, Ger. Overwork is given as the cause. He was born in September, 1840, at Gratz, and made his debut in 1860 at Pesth, in "The Huguenots." After studying in London under Garia, he returned to Germany and sang in several of the large cities. In 1872 he obtained a position at the Imperial Theatre, Vienna, Aus., where he made his best repute. In 1884 he came to America with Materna and Winklemann, and was a successful participant in the Wagner Festival.

The foreign press, in speaking of the illness of Marie Van Zandt, says that she has been so severely stricken with paralysis that she is not expected to recover. She remains at Vieby.

"BANK HOLIDAX," a comedy in two acts, by Herbert B. Cooper, was done for the first time July 14 at the Prince of Wales' Theatre, Liverpool, Eng. The piece is said to possess some very good points, although not wholly original, and would easily bear toning down.

"OUR COLONIAL RELATIVES" is the title of a new comedictal performed for the first time July 9 at the Tyne Theatre, Newcastle, Eng.
"The Jones' Nottes," a farcical-comedy in three acts by Joseph Tabrar, was presented to a London audience July 14 at a matinee performance at the Gaiety Theatre. The Era says that the piece has been purchased by Edward E. Rice, and Henry E. Dixey is to do the principal role. It further adds that it is sorry for both of the gentlemen. The above piece had a provincial airing June 14 at the Theatre Royal, Bournemouth.

"The Miraculous Doll," a one-act opera, adapted by Henry Wardroper from a Swedish version of "Dockan," the music by Adolph Adam, was produced, as it is claimed, for the first time on the English stage July 12 at the Theatre Royal, Sheffield. The plot of the above is made familiar to American amusement-seekers in the piece credited to J. A. Norris and done under the title, "The Electric Doll."

LEONARD S. OUTRAM recently met with an accident whereby his arm was broken. The upsetting of the conveyance carrying him from a rehearsal of Lord Tennyson's "Becket" at Wimbledon was the cause.

The benefit performance in aid of the Actors' Benevolent Fund, July 24, at the Lyceum Theatre, London, Eng., was a most successful affair. "The Bells," with Henry Irving in the role of Mathias, and "Raising the Wind," with Ellen Terry as Peggy and Henry Irving as Jeremy Diddler, were done with pleasing results. The reappearance of Miss Terry was enthus isstically received. Rev. and Mrs. H. W. Beccher occupied one of the boxes. The amount realized was very large, amounting, it is said, to $4,000.

"THE GOLD SLAVE," a drama in five acts, by T. G. Bailey, was acted for the first time at the Theatre Royal, Lougton, Eng. The play, as it now stands, is said to be crude and unfinished, though possessing good points and incidents.

Helkin Barry will commence her touring season Aug. 9 at the Loudesborough Theatre, Scarborough, Eng. "The Esmondes of Virginia" will be done. The tour Will be under the direction of Fred G. Lathome.

"OUR DAILY BREAD," by H. C. Hazlewood, a drama in three acts, was acted July 12 at the Theatre Royal, Stratford, Eng. A piece bearing the same title was done at the Theatre Royal, Wolverhampton, Oct, 5, 1885. The same author wrote both. There seems to have been a change of character names as well as a different sphere for the base of action of the play. The last piece done is evidently the first rewritten.

"FAUST" will receive its one-hundred-and-eighty-eighth performance July 31 at the Lyceum Theatre, London, Eng. This will close the season. Ellen Terry will benefit on the occasion, and is expected to be well enough to reappear as Marguerite. This has been a very successful season for Mr. Irving.

CONNECTICUT

CONNECTICUT.

Bridgeport.—At Wagner's Summer Theatre, business was light last week. The Laporte Sisters were here, in place of the Halls. The report that Fanny Herring did a light business was unintentionally wrong. I was misled by what I saw and heard, coupled with the manager's statement that they would lose money. Figures given me by Mr. Jennings tell a different story and show that business was good. May Adams' Specialty Co. this week. ... Rain caused a postponement of the Elks' ball-game to July 31. Word was telegraphed to New Haven, but the message was two hours and fifty minutes on the way, and about twenty-five came down, only to be disappointed. A few remained over night at a hotel here, and in the morning found they had been robbed. A detective was called in, and the thief proved to be Tom Ferguson (the boxer), who had been hanging around the place. Only two would appear against him, but he received $45 and costs and ninety days in the City Court 23.... At Schutte's Garden, 26-31: Sabro Lonsdale, Alice Llewellyn, Georgie Marsh, Billy Williams and Chas. Frey. Georgie Marsh has hit 'em hard here, as may be inferred from her long stay (five weeks)........ At the Drum, the only new arrival is Minnie Moran.

Sioux Falls.—Pringle's Georgia Minstrels show-ed here to a fair house July 16......Fielding's Com-edy Ideals played one week at New Opera-house, com-mencing 19.

WISSOURI.

Kansas City.—The extreme dry and warm weather the past few weeks has had a tendency to make business at the different places of amusement very light, with the exception of Music Hall and Garden, which has had an unusually large attendance. This is probably due to the location and arrangement of the building, being such as to render it cool and pleasant the warmest evening that we have had. One side of the building opens out on a beautiful little park and garden, which is fitted up in the most artistic manner, where fountains of water are kept playing all the time. Between acts the audience promenade through the garden where, if they choose, they can refresh themselves with a cool lemonade. Last week the Starr Opers Co. closed a three weeks' successful engagement. It is certainly the best light-opers company that has visited this city during the past season. The solos and duetts were good, and the comic and sensational parts were finely rendered, while the chorus was full and strong. This week, Hulett's Orchestra, assisted by Linda Brambilla will hold the boards.

COATES' OPERA-HOUSE.—On July 18 a benefit concert was given Linda Brambilla by local talent, which was an artistic performance throughout and a popular success. The house is dark this week.

GILLIS' OPERA-HOUSE.—The Wilber Madison-square Co. take possession of the stage this week, at cheap prices of admission, being only ten and twenty cents. Mr. Wilber states that he has three companies on the road playing at cheap prices, and crowded houses have been the rule. He says that crowded houses and cheap prices are much better than high prices and empty chairs.

COLISEUM THEATRE.—New arrivals 26: Kittie Melville, Harry Fitzgerald and wife, Leonard and Fillmore, and Sherwood and Mullen. Remaining, are Frank and Mabel Hall. Business is light.

WALNUT-STREET THEATRE.—Opening 26: Liza Weber's Burlesque Co., Conners and Colins and Robert Brittian. Remaining, are Tom Gregory, Tom Blackford, Tim Raynor and George Yager. Business colly fair. MISSOURI.

Mr. Judah comes to take charge of the Cyclorama when completed.......Fred Mears, doorkeeper at the Museum, accidentally shot himself through the hand with a revolver one day last week. The wound is not so serious as to keep him off duty.....John S. Raynor is now proprietor and manager of the Walnut-street, having bought out his partner, G. B. Ghiggerie..... Manager A. D. Clark of the Coliseum is erecting a fine building to be used expressly for a museum which will be capable of seating 2,000. It is to be completed by Nov. 1....... The manager and attaches of the Walnut-street spent July 20 picnicing and had quite an enjoyable time. On their return home they visited the grave of the late Charley Queen, decorating it with flowers while the band played a dirge...... A benefit was given Frank Deshon at Music Hall evening of 23, which was well attended... Alfred Adams, the stage-manager of the Coliseum, dropped dead about 11 o'clock 17 while walking along the street, from hemorrhage of the lungs. Mr. Adams was better known among theatrical people as Sevator Al. Adams. He was a State Senator in Kentucky. He had been employed here at the Coliseum about two and a half months, and was universally liked. There was no member of his family here, his wife having dies some years ago, leaving a daughter who is now in Cincinnati, O. The funeral services took place the following day, and were very largely attended. The interment took place in Union Cemetery. [Adams was born in Louisville of a good family, and served honorably in the War, with Morgan's guerillas. He graduated from the Louisville Medical University in 1864, and located in Frankfort, where he entered politics later, with the result above noted. Toronto.—At Hanlan's Island, the Holman Family canceled their engagement to begin July 19, for reasons not announced. Their place was filled by a Standard Opera Co., semi-professional, under the management of W. J. Dill. During the week they sang "Pinafore" to large and apparently well-satisfied audiences, and on the whole gave a very enjoyable entertainment, the novelty, of course, being the great attraction. They perform en board a two-masted schooner with rigging, sails, etc., in their proper places. The vessel is anchored about thirty or forty feet from the shore, upon which are erected a stand and seats with a capacity of about two thousand. The presentation is truly nautical. The admiral, his uncles, his aunts and cousins, all come aboard "H. M. S. Pinafore" from real boats pulled alongside, and Dick Deadeye is thrown bodily overboard into the lake at the proper moment. The presentation is certainly a new departure. [To Toronto, maybe, but not in the East. It is old hereabouts.—ED. CLIPFER.] The audience appear thoroughly to appreciate the situation, as also does Dick Deadeye—a good swimmer, by the way—when he goes head foremost under the water, in one of which excursions he lost beard and wig, much to the amusement of the onlookers. The idea has caught on, I think. The enterprise is connected with one of our lines of ferryboats plying to the Island.

INDIANA.

Fort Wayne.—On July 20, at the Masonic Temple, Haverly's Minstrels were greeted by a packed house, and can be credited with having made an emphatic hit. The greater part of the programme was original, and the applause was hearty and frequent. The afterpart was by far the best burlesque on "The Mikado" yet seen in the city. There are no mere attractions booked until September, and the house will be dark. Manager Simonson has just returned from New York, where he succeeded in making some first-class bookings.....C. D. Woodworth of the City Billposting Co. was in Detroit 14 attending the Billposters' Convention......Messrs. New York City.
REVIEW OF THE WEEK. There were eighteen dark houses and not a new bill last week. It was not an attractive theatrical layout, and yet there were no complaints from the few open houses. The Casino continued "Erminie" to profitable business-it would have been better but for the recently-enforced necessity of selling temperance lrinks on the roof garden and "Humbug" at the Bijou and "Prince Karl" at the Madison square held on with good results. Dan Sully's five weeks' run of "Paddy Nolan" closed at Tony Pastor's July 24 to an average of encouraging attendance. We are sorry that Mr. Sully could not have made We are sorry that Mr. Sully could not have made his new play known before the season had so nearly drawn to a close. It would have filled Pastor's nightly for several months. As it is, Mr. Sully should make plenty of money with it on the road in the Fall. ... The houses dark were the Standard, Daly's, Wallack's, Park, Comedy, Fifthavener, Lyceum, Fourementher, Union-Square, Stark Third-avener, Nimo's, Profile's, Third-ak, Mt. Mooris, Harley Comque, Eighthavener, and Grand Opera-house. The week of "Jack Sheppard," by the N. S. Wood Co., at the Windson, was prolitable to an extent hardly expected, and at one time during the week an extension of the engagement was being considered by Mr. Wood. The company closed 24, however, and on that date the Windson's first season ended, Manager Murtha says the success he met was not unlooked for, and he thinks he has the house on the profitable road to stay. He certainly put in a string of strong combinations, and he made the theatre very popular.

the profitable road to stay. He certainly put in a string of strong combinations, and he made the theatre very popular.

Lendon Theatre.—"A Practical Joke," by the Le Clair & Russell Co., commenced an engagement of a week July 26, under the most favorable circum stances. The weather being comfortably cool, the house held audiences of fair size Monday afternosm and evening. The piece has undergone some changes, both in situations and in dialogue; and has thereby been improved since it was first seen here, some weeks ago, and now it moves along in a smooth and finished manner. The cast is nearly the same as at its initial performance, and the people, being now thoroughly at ease in their roles, give more point to the bits of business entrusted to them. New music and songs have been introduced with good results. This is the last week of the preliminary season of the company, who will rest until the opening of the Fall tour in September. The burlesque company with Alice Townsend as the shining light will occupy the boards week of Aug. 2.

KOSTKE A BIAL'S.—The last performance of "Ixion" will take place Friday evening, July 30. On that occasion Ella Wesner will benefit, and, judging by the advance sale of tickets, the affair will be most successful. Besides the regular company a number of "extras" will participate. The specialties for week of July 26 include the bavenes in their aerial feats, Kokin Segowa, the juggler, and others. "Venus and Adonis" will be done for the first time at the matinee 31. The cast. Venus, Rosa Lee, Adonis, Louise Dempsey; Cactus, Press Eldridge; Vascline, Fred Warren. Theodorine Ella Wesner. Dividicus, Charles F. Shattuck, Capt. Bullock Miss Phillips Co. Bantam, Ada Chamberlain; A. D. T. Boy, Ida Waters. The chorus will be large and the costumes handsome. National Thearms.—"Around the World in Eighty Days" having proved a good drawing attraction last week, thanks to fairly cool weather, Manager Heumann decided to run it another. At the opening performance of the current week, evening of J theatre stock in the drama "Grizzy Adams." The specialty people named are Sullivan and McTarthy, the Brantfords, Marion and Belle, and George W. Woods.

Mak. Neuville, who is playing "The Boy Tramp" at Tony Pastor's this week, with her ambitious son Augustine, is a stock actress of the old school. She was frequently in the support of Forrest and other tragedians of decades ago. She has also wielded a pen to advantage. Many years ago she wrote "Under the Willows," which was done at the old Lyceum Theatre, this city. She also wrote "Stricken Blind." acted by Clara Morris when that lady was under R. E. J. Miles' management. Of late seasons we best recall her as Mrs. Bargees in "7-20-8" and Mother Shipton in "The Romany Rye."

The mystery as to the place of H. E. Dixey's and "Adonis" reappearance in this city is solved, if it be true, as we hear, that the Fifth avenue is the house at last secured. They open Sept. 20, closing their London stay Aug. 28, and playing in Liverpool on their return trip. The engagement is for a fortnight only. Manager Rice wanted a month, but Mr. Stetson's bookings for October prevented. Joseph Murphy, Sept. 16-18, will precede the Dixey Co.

In the long and stubbornly contested suit of W. C. Cowper against Thealt & Williams, as to the right to produce "Blackmail" ("Her Last Hope"), Mr. Cowper went before Judge Barrett July 21 and asked to have a decree entered against Thealt & Williams because they have failed to answer or pay the costs granted plaintiff at a previous trial. Decision was reserved.

Soffik Eyric, who returned to her West Thirty sixth street flat from Atlantic City, N. J. last week, says that no papers were served upon her in "Frisco in the reported suit of her husband, Chauncey R. Winslow, for divorce. She adds, however, that Mr. Winslow has not contributed to her support since last September, and that, when the necessary year is up, she will sue him for limited divorce, on the grounds of abandonment and non support.

"PRINCE KARI," at the Madison-square, will be acted for the one hundredth time evening of July 30, "Erminie" will have its one hundredth representation at the Casino Aug. 14.

WHILE enjoying the breeziness of Schroon Lake, N. Y., Edward Harrigan is putting the finishing touches upon his new play, with which his theatre in this city will begin its fall season. There will be a preliminary season, opening Aug. 23, and for that "Investigation," brightened by new music which Dave Braham is now working on, will be revived. Rehearsals are to begin Aug. 14. The company will be the same as last season, with possibly the exception that Charles Sturgess, who was with Harrigan and Hanley in times long gone, will take the place of A. C. Moreland. Mr. Harrigan's new play has not yet been christened, but the MS, receives baptism, page by page, every little while.

Martin W. Hanley is boating and fishing in the Adirondacks, and enjoying himself hugely. He is also developing into an eminent conversationalist, and some of his fish stories are marvels of the length to which the English language can be stretched.

Week brooke Last, we referred to the libel suit instituted by Minnie Oscar Gray, the actress, against H. H. Hadley, editor, and The Uptown News. Publishing Co. Lawyer E. E. Price, on behalf of Miss Gray, served the papers, demanding judgment for $25,000, together with the costs of action. The plaintiff affidavit recited the libelous statement in full, and made complaint that its publication had injured Miss Gray's reputation as an actress and a womar. The current issue of The Uptown News contains this unmistakable apology to Miss Gray: "We are at a loss to know how the reporter confounded the mame of the plaintiff with that of Minnie Clausen Gray. We understand that the plaintiff bears an excellent reputation, and we regret if any mistake that may have occurred has caused Miss Gray annoy ance; but why couldn't she have written us about the matter direct, instead of scaring the life out of a poor, innocent editor by such a ponderous document? It was an innocent and unintentional mistake that made in say that Brewer Clausen's daughter-in-law was Minnie Oscar Gray, and we desire to give Mrs. Stephens the full benefit of this correction."

Howson-Mastayer —An interesting question has just arisen in connection with this suit. The act recently passed by the Legislature, directing that in certain cases appeals must be taken directly from the General Term of the City Court to the Court of Appeals, instead of the Court of Common Pleas, as heretofore, caused much argument before Judge Peckham in the Supreme Court Chambers, July 26. About the time of the passage of the act John Howson had a suit pending against W. A. Mestayer in the City Court, General Term. When the case was settled an appeal was taken to Common Pleas, but the clerk of the City Court refused to make the necessary return, declaring that the Legislature had abolished Common Pleas as an Appellate Court, Judge Peckham was therefore applied to for a mandamus to compel a return to be made to Common Pleas. He granted the mandamus.

Manager T. H. Firench returned from Europe July 25. He says he did not buy a single play, or see any he wanted to buy. He only settled the details of the Violet Cameron tour, and negotiated with Arthur Roberts, the comedian, to come with her.

Manager John W. Norron of St. Louis is in the city er route to the seashore, where he hopes to entirely recover his health.

George H. Addam's "Missino Link" Co. and Gibson & Ryan's "Irish Puck" Co. are among the probable coming attractions at Tony Pastor's Theatre, under Mr Sully's lesseeship. Both pieces are new.

Harlem Payllion.—On account of the unfavorable weather, July 26, the attendance at this place was somewhat smaller than usual, although it was of fair size. The performance opened with Chas. H. Stanley and Lizzie Conway, in songs, who made a good impression: Julia Wilson in songs, adness and high kicking, were entertaining: the Horseshoe Four—the Love Sisters, F. B. Carr and J. J. Tony Paston's Theather—'The Boy Tramp, or the Maniac Mother," opened before a large audience for two weeks July 26. The authoress of the drains is Mine. Neuville, who enacts the part of Mrs. Earlston. The piece was done for the first time on any stage at the National Theatre, this city, March 22, 1886. It was reviewed at length in these columns on its first presentation. The play has undergone some changes, and has thereby been improved. The many lurid incidents are still very strong. Frequent applause was bestowed on those in the cast, which was: Jack Blazpe, Augustin Neuville; Richard Earlston, Percy Meldon: Afred Earlston, A. R. McGregor; Mr. Markham, Fred D. Munroe; Dr. De Mandeville, John L. Sanford; Terrence, L. M. Martell; Sam, George T. Shepard; Policeman, C. H. Murray; Special-officer, Alex. Wesfon; Mrs. Earlston, Mme. The piece is new to this city, we believe.

Albany.—The bi-centennial celebration of the City of Albany, which commenced July 18 and ended 22, was a huge affair, and was marked with success from start to finish. The citizens to an individual were interested and left nothing undone to make the city pleasant for the hundred thousand strangers that participated in the festivities. The first day, Sunday, 18, was devoted to religious services, commencing with a military mass in St. Mary's R. C. Church. 19 was childrens' and trades' day, opening with a national salute of thirty-eight guns, proclamation of welcome by the Mayor, John Boyd Thatcher, and opening of the city gates by the Mayor, preceded by heralds, etc., in full costume. There were also concerts by school children, canoe races, uncovering of historical tablets, a grand parade of trades organizations, the day closing with fireworks and band concerts. Third day, parade of Indians, and Irish, German, Hollanders, French, Italian and other organizations. After parade, planting of memorial oak in Washington Park by the German societies, with appropriate musical and literary exercises by Irish societies. Then came the trial hears of the annual regatta of the N. A. A. O. at Pleasure Island, and Scottish games at the Fair Grounds. In the evening, parade of emblematical floats by Oddfellows, Knights of Pythias, and other fraternal organizations, bore of emblematical floats by Oddfellows, Englands of Pythias, and other fraternal organizations, sons of veterans, political clubs, etc. Final races of amateur regatta, and at 8.30 F. Sam Dubois, at No. 1,712 Norris street, where he now is. He declines to make a statement, as his friends are trying to have him reinstated. Other inmates of the home say he is under Supt. Wilson's ban, and is innocent of the charges against him. Mr. Dubois says that Mr. Ward is eccentric, but not objectionably so. It is said at the Home by Manager Wilson that "Ward was expelled for the repeated violation of rules about personal cleanliness." Perusal of these rules does not show that they are oppressive, or such as any reasonably-disposed person ought to be unwilling to keep. But it is evident that Manager Wilson is not very popular with the inmates, or, as far as it can be learned, with the profession in general. He was a hotel-keeper before he was placed in charge of the Home, first at Pacono, Pa., and then at Atlantic City. Unpopular as he is, the inmates declare that their accommodations are excellent. Each has a large pleasant room to himself or herself, and all are required to respect the privacy of each other's apartments. They are at liberty to go away for a couple of months if they like, on visits, and money is furnished them to pay traveling expenses. The inmates are also permitted to come in town in the evening, but for all these departures from Home precincts the permission of the manager must be asked and obtained. If they wish to attend church a pew is taken for them. There are only eleven inmates now, since Mr. Ward's expulsion, and unless all consent there cannot be more than twelve at one time. The latest admission is Frank Lawlor, husband of Josie Mansfeld, and who, after John McCullough left San Francisco, managed, with Gen. Barton, the children. They like to look up to the manager of an institution of this kind. It does seem a pity that he couldn't be, in this case, a man identified in some way with the stage. There is no sympathy now between the manager and the inmates; and, worst of all, they complain that they never see any dramatic papers.

Florence intended to call one of his new plays "The Rainbow", he notified Mr. F. of priority of title. Mrs. Clayton (Ella Reed), John Dignam and others go with Mr. Standish. Mr. Clayton was formerly with Bennett & Moulton's Opera Co. As the title of a play, we beg to add, "The Rainbow" is not new. There isn't much proprietary right in a title anyhow. It chiefly represents one dollar transferred from a citizen to the United States Government, with leave for him afterwards to undergo litigation to prove that he was justified in paying over his dollar.

The Park is certainly an appropriate place to launch a play with that title, and if any seasands are needed the genuine article can readily be procured. The veteran actor Henry Scharf is also a scenic-artist of ability. He has been engaged for some weeks in painting scenery for "Seasands" and "Fogg's Ferry" for the Lizzie Evans Co. Mr. Scharf was originally an English comedian, and came to this city as a member of the old Broadway Theatre stock in 1850. F. B. Conway, Wm. Davidge and the Gougenheim Sisters came with him. Mr. Scharf is entering upon his fourth consecutive season with Miss Evans.

BILLIARDS.

BILLILIARDS.

DEATH OF JOHN M. BRUNSWICK.

This gentleman, whose health had been precarious for a long time, died of heart-disease at his residence. Wahnut Hills, Cincinnati on July 25. Although his name had been familiar in billiards for upwards of thirty years, yet he himself was almost an unknown figure therein. He was born of Jewish parents in Bengarten. Switzerland, on Oct. 6, 1819, and came to this country fifteen years later. After a short period spent in this city as an errand-boy, he went to Philadelphia, where he served for four years as a apprentice in the carriage-making business. After about three years in Harrisburg, he went to Cincinnati, in which city he was from time to time engaged with different houses, among them the Fulton Omnibus Co. Later he was a steward on the Ohio River for two years, and next he opened a carriage factory in Cincinnati. Finally he went into the business of manufacturing billiard-tables. There was a large field at the West, no one from the East ever seriously attempting to occupy it until about 187. Interested with him were his brothers, one of whom is now in San Francisco, and another of whom was drowned in a steamboat collision on the Ohio River about 1867. Trade flourished, and about 1860 they began establishing branches in Chicago, 8t. Louis, New Orleans, etc. It is a sisgular circumstance that until eight years ago, when a branch was established in this city, a table of the make of J. M. Brunswick & Co. was scarcely to be met with east of the country lying about Pitisburg, Ps. In Western Pennsylvania they for many years had the field all to themselves virtually, and yet were unable to make any inroad upon Philadelphia. Prior to 1859 they had a leading Western billiard-player—Philip Tieman—with them. He was their agent. Shortly after the great Phelan Secreiter match, in 1850, when Tieman became acquainted with Michael Phelan, Philip transferred his good offices to Julius Balke, a rival manufacturer in Cincinnati, and after that the fight waxed warm. It was particula portioned into sixths. The surviving members ar Julius Balke, H. W. Collender, Moses Bensinger (son in-law), Leo. Schmidt and A. F. Troescher.

BURKE WANTS A MATCH WITH NOLAN.

He Posts $450 Deposit.

The result of the recent glove-contest between Jack Burke and Peter Nolan at Cincinnati was as much of a disappointment to the former as it was a surprise to the sporting public, who rated Jack much the cleverer boxer. Burke claims that the wired reports of the encounter, like those published in local papers, were highly colored in favor of Nolan, and that he did not have a fair deal at any stage of the game. He is therefore desirous of meeting Nolan again, on neutral ground, and to that end sends us the appended challenge, accompanied by a certified check for $250. He also explains some of the causes why he could not have won at Chester Park:

Editor N. Y. CLIPPER: So many fails and contradictory reports have been published of my recent glove contest with Feter Nolan of Cincinnati July 5, that I feel coustrained to say a word in my own behalf concerning the affair. WHY THEY WERE ACQUITTED.

In the trial of Jack Burke and Peter J. Nolan in the Police Court at Cincinnati, before Judge Caldwell, July 19 (the result of which was given in our last issue), the first witness called for the defense was Rud. K. Hynicka, president of the Chester Park Athletic Club. The articles of incorporation issued by the Secretary of State to the said club were read, and then Mr. Hynicka detailed the objects of the club, and stated that the recent contest between Nolan and Burke was given under the auspices of the club. He refuted the idea that it was a prizefight, and stated that the contestants received no prize of any kind, but simply $3,570 of the gate-receipts each. This each man received irrespective of whether he was declared victor or not. The remaining thirty per cent. was used in paying the expenses of the club. Other members were placed upon the stand in correboration of what he said. The jury were our scarcely twenty minutes when it was announced that a verdict had been arrived at. It was unanimous for acquittal, and the defendants were promptly discharged. It was a test case, brought to ascertain whether the police had a right to interfere with such athletic entertainments given at Chester Park under the auspices of the club. WHY THEY WERE ACQUITTED.

MANNING DEFEATS MORRISON.
A glove-fight took place a few miles from Cleve-land, O., July 25, between Frank Morrison, 188 pounds, and Pete Manning, 161 pounds, both Clevé-landers. Two-ounce gloves were used. Morrison was the stronger of the two, and in the first round forced the fighting, but Manning overmatched him in science, and his blows went home straighter and with more telling effect. It was give and take from the beginning, both men being badly punished about the face and neck. In the fifth round Manning the beginning, both men being badily punished about the face and neck. In the fifth round Manning started in to knock out his man or be whipped him-self, and the fighting for two minutes and a half was at close quarters, and victous in the extreme. At last Manning landed his right on Morrison's jaw, and clinched the blow with a swinging left-hander on the other side of the head. The concussion laid Morrison on his back gasping, and at the end of 10 seconds he was unable to respond. The fight was accordingly given to Manning.

GOING FOR THE MILLERITES.

An order was issued from police-headquarters in Philadelphia, July 22, reading as follows:

When a prize-fight takes place and no arrests have been made get the names of the principals and abettors and as many sit the witnesses thereto as possible. Warrants will then be taken out for such principals and the proprietor of the place where the fight occurred, based on information and belief, and summons issued against those who were present, to be meel as witnesses. In cases of the above where arrests are made the prisoners must, in every instance, be brought to the Central Station for a hearing. The captains of divisions and lieutenants of the districts will take such measures as to insure the successful carrying-out of this order.

Warren vs. Collins.—The glove-contest between Tommy Warren of Louisville, Ky., and Jimmy Collins of Pittaburg. Pa., took place in Minneapolis, Minn., July 26. Warren showed himself to be much the better fighter. He was more scientific, hit harder, was quicker and had the cooler head. At the end of the eighth round the crowd wanted the fight continued to a finish, but the referee, Hank Seeley, declared that Warren had the best of it all the way through, and accordingly gave him the fight.

DOWN IN A COAL-MINE.

A fight between miners, Jimmy Sullivan and Miles McGurk, took place near Barry's Station, Va., July 26. There was no stake at issue, the fight being brought about in order to settle an old feud. The fight took place on the sandy bottom of an old mine breach in the mountain, and was carried on by the light of miners' lamps hung sround the ragged sides. Dick Smith was agreed upon for referee and the trouble comisenced. Eleven rounds were fought, during which both were terribly beaten. In the first round McGurk struck Sullivan on the neck, twirling him sround like a top. Sullivan eyed his man more cautiously in the second round and closed McGurk's right eye with a right-hander. The third was characterized by desperate slugging, equally divided. In the fourth and fifth some hard in-fighting was done. During these rounds Sullivan's nose was broken by a well-directed and powerful blow from McGurk. The sixth and seventh were light ones, the men sparring for wind. In the eight Sullivan forced the fighting and knocked McGurk clean off his feet. In the ninth McGurk was groggy, but game, and got in two hard ones on his opponent's nose. In the tenth McGurk was again knocked down, and in the eleventh he was knocked senseless.

HELD FOR TRIAL.—The puglists "Nitchie" Golden and John Grady, Referred James Ryan and Time-keeper John West, who, as noted last week, were arrested in Philadelphia and taken to Wilmington, Del., on requisition, charged with aiding and participating in a prize fight in that State recently, were given a hearing before Esquire Bertolette July 24. Golden and Grady were each held under $1,500 bail and Ryan and West each under $1,000 bail for trial. West furnished security and the others were remanded. The testimony upon which the men were held was furnished by reporters who were instructed that they could be legally required to testify, but that as they had attended the fight in the pursuit of their avocation, and not for the purpose of "encouraging" a prize fight, their testimony wou

AMPUTATING THE LEG OF A DEER.
About two months ago a two-year-old buck deer in the herd of O. Plock, the wealthy New York banker, at Guymard, fell and broke his leg. Dr. Sutchiff of Middletown attended the animal at the time and set the fracture. The leg was broken below the knee, and this in a few weeks again united nicely, but the ligament of the knee ruptured by the fall failed to heal. Mr. Plock was very anxious to save the life of the deer, as it was the only buck in his herd, and fearing that the wounded limb would cause its death, decided to try amputation. The deer was brought to Middletown and placed in the doctor's barn, where on Saturday the operation was performed. The leg was amputated at a point two inches avove the knee, chloroform first being given to the animal. The deer was unifer the influence of the ansesthetic inside of two minutes, and suffered no pain during the cutting, and since the operation has improved rapidly, not missing a mess of food. Cases of amputation of animals' lumbs are very rare.—Middletown (N. Y.) Press.

AN OWL ATTACKS MEN.

AN OWL ATTACKS MEN.

The Chief constable of Roxburghshire writes: "A remarkable circumstance came under my notice a few days ago. When inspecting my men at Hawick on June I7, one of them presented a damaged countenance: and, on asking him the cause of it, he stated that when on duty that morning, on the road near to Branxholm, he was attacked by an owl. Somewhat doubting. I pushed the inquiry, and learned that this same owl had attacked a number of people, whose names were given me, in the Summer of 1885, and that during the present season its attacks have been repeated and persistent. The first attack on the constable was made about 10 r. M. on the 14th. When he passed the tree on which it was perched it gave a screech and struck him with its beak and claws on the back of the neck, entting the skin. On the second occasion it again gave warning, and the constable, with a view of securing the bird, turned round and walked backward; but before he could place himself in a position of defence the owl darted on him, struck him on the left cheek, and tore the flesh of his cheek and under eyelid. After striking, it flew away and perched on a tree on the opposite side of the read from where it usually perched, and when the constable turned round and was proceeding on his way, it darted on him sgain, this time striking him on the back of the neck. I have the names of about a dozen people who have been attacked in the same way and at or near the same place. The most determined attack, however, was that made on the 18th—the night after the attack on the constable—on David Redger and Henry Elliot, who were waiking on the read about 11 o'cleck. Elliot was next to the tree on which the owl was sitting, and, without any warning, it darted on him, struck him on the lead, and carried off his cap. It attacked him thriee in succession without alighting. But the notoriety of its courage led to its destruction. On the 20th it was shot by a game-keeper. It turned out to be a common brown owl, its legs and feet closely feathered. A y

THE ANTIQUITY OF MASSAGE.

THE ANTIQUITY OF MASSAGE.

At the recent feative gathering of the London Club called "Odd Volumes," one of the members gave a curious account of massage as a mode of treatment. It is certainly very popular at the present moment, and people want to hear something clear and definite about it. The gentleman assured his listeners that there was reason to think that massage had been known to the chinese from time immemorial, and it was stated that the process was fully described in a MSS. called "Kong Fou," the date of which was 3,000 B. C. The word itself was derived, according to some authorities, from the Greek "massein," to rub; while others referred it to the Arabic word "mass," to press softly. In a primitive form it was known both to the Greeks and the Romans, who resorted to it after the bath, a custom which prevails among the Orientals to the present day. After the struggles of the circus it was employed to dissipate the resulting contusions and extravasations, and to restore plability to the bruised and stiffened joints. Among the Sandwich Islanders it was frequently practised under the name of "lomi-lomi," and the process was fully described in the works of Emerson and Nordhoff. This, however, was a crude and primitive form, having very little in cemmon with the elaborate scientific system now resorted to in this country. There was reason to think that the true massage was used in France in the early part of this century, an opinion which was to some extent confirmed by the fact that all the terms employed to designate the various branches of the art were French in origin. An impetus was given to the study of the subject by the publication in 1685 of an essay in Dutch by Mezger of Amsterdam. It was, however, owing to the researches of Prof. Von Mosengeit of Bonn that it had been placed on a firm scientific basis. The literature of massage was now very extensive, and during the last ten years over a hundred works appeared on the subject.

DANCING AND MUSIC IN PERSIA.

DANCING AND MUSIC IN PERSIA.

Two girls come forward slowly—for the true Oriental is never in a hurry—remove their chapts, or head covering, and bow to the assembled guests. For some seconds they stand quite motionless, then the eyelids begin to move, and by degrees each muscle commences to quiver until every limb is affected. Although all present, with the exception of myself, had seen this a thousand times before, no sooner had the dancers advanced than the attention of every one was engrossed. The performers then bent their Attaongh an present, with the exception of myself, had seen this a thousand times before, no sooner had the dancers advanced than the attention of every one was engrossed. The performers then bent their heads gradually back until they almost touched the ground, then they raised themselves, and leaned forward until they sank down upon their knees, still quivering in every muscle, until at length they lay prone on the ground. For some seconus they remained there quite motionless, as though animation were entirely suspended. The first sign of returning life was to move the heads from side to side, the quivering motion recommences, and the dancers assume their upright position and break into a sort of badly-danced polks. This native dancing might almost be called a song illustrated by gestures and posturing rather than dancing in our acceptation of the word. These ong-dances are usually accompanied by a din of tom-toms, or a squeaking sort of violin, but played by the fingers only; the sounds produced are monotonous, and not pleasing to European ears; the movements of the dancers are marked by castanets. Persian music and singing are very different to our Western ideas of harmony, and the rendering of a song so ridiculous, being more a series of grimaces and contortions than melodious intonation. Yet Persians rave about their music just as they do about the sweetness of their fruits, the beauty of their women, the fertility of their country, and I have no doubt that our music is just as they do about the sweetness of their fruits, the beauty of their women, the fertility of their country, and the rears as theirs is to ours. Night after night they will sit up at these and similar entertainments which to us would be insupportably tedious, and this music and singing will hold them breathless and unwearied. The tambourine is a very favorite instrument. It is held upon the lap and is played by striking the tightly stretched skin with the second and third fingers of the right hand and the four fingers of the left hand.—L

On the plantation of Cullen Hargrove a large number of negroes were at work hoesing cotton. Mr. Cullen, hearing cries of alarm in the field, was attracted thither, where he found the negroes seized with terror over the presence of a monatrous saurian. It was an anious to fight, and opening its capacious mouth would charge upon the workers. As the men and women had nothing but hoes they were at a disast vantage. A chance piece of rock put out one of the sligator's eyes, which gave the workers their opportunity to close in with hoes, fence-rais, etc. when the creature was stunned. FRANCES ABINGTON.

A little less than a century and a half ago a bright little girl was daily to be seen selling flowers in the Mall of St. James' Park. Popularly known as "Nose gay Fan," the child did her best to help in the support of her poor home, shared by her father, once a private seldier in the King's Guards, and then a cobler in Windmill street, and afterwards in Vineyard yard, Drur lane, and her brother, who watered the horses of the Hampstead stage in Hamway yard, Tottenham Court road. Thence she arose to the dignity of reciting at the Bedford or Shakespeare in Coventgarden whenever she could persuade a waiter to introduce her to the company assembled in those taverns. From spouting Shakespeare and other authors from a table in the Covent garden plazza she became a servant to a French milliner in Cockspur street, acquiring thereby a taste for dress, afterwards of great service to her, and an acquaintance with the French tongue. Thence the girl passed to the kitchen, over which Robert Baddeley—then not dreaming of the cake which he was later on to bequeath to Drury-lane Theatre—presided, and—to something worse. The girl was Frances Barton, born in 1731, one of the first comic actresses of our stage, and the original Lady Teazle. Her common origin, and the penny, lowness and misery of her early life excuse her frailty, and, though none too virtuous at first, the "Nosegay Fan" of later life was an estimable, benevolent woman.

The stage career of Fannie Barton common origin and the penny length of the Stage St the penury, lowness and misery of her early life excuse her frailty, and, though none too virtuous at first, the "Nosegay Fan" of later life was an estimable, benevolent woman.

The stage career of Fannie Barton commenced in 1755 on Theophilus Cibber obtaining permission to present a certain number of performances at the Haymarket Theatre. On Aug. 21 of that year was announced the comedy of "The Busy Body," the part of Miranda by Miss Barton, "being her first essay," Miranda was rapidly followed by Miss Jenny in "The Provoked Husband," Kitty Pry in "The Lying Valet." Sylvia in "The Recruiting Officer," Prince Prettyman in "The Rehearsal," and Mrs. Tom Tattoo in "Lethe." From the Haymarket, Miss Barton went to Bath, and during the Summer following she played at Richmond, where she was seen by one of the patentees of Drarylane Theatre, who engaged her forthwith. She accordingly opened at Drury in November, 1756, appearing as Lady Pliant in Congreve's comedy, "The Double Dealer." Advancement at Drury-lane was difficult—indeed, well-nigh impossible, for the beginner who had to contend, on the one hand, with Mrs. Clive in comedy. So an engagement in Dublin, more advantageous in every way to the actress, being offered, was prompily accepted, and the actress crossed to the Irish capital. But at this period she was Miss Barton no more, for she had married her music-master, Mr. Abington, one of the trumpeters in the Royal segvice. Nothing very precise is known of this same Abbigton, beyond the fact that he was a smart-looking little man, of a lively wit, and not very attentive to his duties as a husband. It is not, therefore, much to be wondered at that the flower-girl of early days should have sought consolation with one Mr. Needham, a member of the Irish Parliament, to whom she was so faithful that he left her an annuity. Mr. Abington was content to wink at the connection in consideration of a yearly sum of money allowed him was made at the Simon she was admirably suited, was Beatrice in "Much Ado About Nothing." This repeated a dozen times during the season. Mrs. Abington's success on the stage was now assured, and so nice was her taste in dress that the "Abington to ap" was the rage among the Dublin ladies.

Mrs. Abington was engaged the following season for the Crow-street Theatre, the great rival to Smockalley, and she opened there on May 22, 1760, acting Lady Townley and Lucinda in "The Englishman in Paris." The night chosen for her entrance at Crowstreet was also appointed for her benefit, and so greatly was she patronized that it was found necessary to convert part of the pit into seats corresponding to our modern stalls. Her Virgin Unmasked in "Oroonoko" and her Lucy in "The Beggar's Opera" also brought her fame. It is worthy of note that Mrs. Abington had for companions in the Crow-street company Woodward, Fleetwood, Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson and Mr. Dancer. To the Harlequin of Woodward Mrs. Abington appeared as Columbine in the pantomine of "Queen Mab." Her Chloe in "The Lottery" and her Polly Honey-combe in Colesnan's farce of that name displayed her comic powers uncommonly well. Arthur Murphy's comedy, "The Way to Keep Him," was first performed in Dublin, at Crow-street, in February, 1761, when Mrs. Abington rose still further in public estimation by her easy, elegant portrayal of the Widow Belmour. In the following Autuum Mrs. Abington returned, under Mossoj's management, to Smockalley, where she remained until the next year, when she was engaged by Garrick for Drury lane.

Her reappearance at Drury lane was made in the character of Lady Belmour. She remained there, in undisputed possession of the chief comic parts, for twenty years. There she performed Lady Fanciful in "The Provoked Wife," Araminta in "The School for Lovers," Belinda in "All in the Wrong," Polly Peachum, Miss Prue, Lady Betty Modish, Lady Townley and Millamont. She was also the original representative of Lady Alton in "The English Merchant," Charlotte in "The Hypocrite," Miss Ruspert in "The West Indian." Lady Bab Lardoon in "The Maid of the Oaks, riage," for the benefit of Alexander Pope, portrait-painter and player. The last time, however, that she acted was on May 31 of the same year, when she played Lady Fanciful at Brandenburg House, the residence of the Margravine Anspach, who acted Lady Brute. From that time until her death, in 1815, she retired from public life, and busied herself in quietly doing good to her fellow-creatures.

Thomas Davies, a contemporary of the actress, judged her person to be elegant, her address graceful and her looks animated and expressive. "To the goodness of her understanding," he also wrote, "and the superiority of her taste she is indebted principally for the power of pleasing. The tones of her voice are not naturally charming to the ear, but her incomparable skill in modulation renders them perfectly agreeable. Her articulation is even so exact that every yilable she utters is conveyed distinctly and even harmoniously." According to Charles Dibdin, there came with Mrs. Abington "a species of excellence which the stage seems never before to have boasted in the same perfection. The higher parts in comedy had been performed chastely and truly; perhaps in these particulars more so than by this actress. There was a peculiar goodness gleamed across the levity of Mrs. Pritchard, and, by what one can learn of Mrs. Bracegirdle, who seems to have possessed the same sort of captivating manners which distinguished Mrs. Abington, she was in these characters natural and winning. But it remained for her successor to add a degree of grace, fashion and accomplishment to epriphtliness which was no sooner seen than it was imitated in the politest circles. In addition to the grace, the ease and the elegance with which Mrs. Abington impersonated characters in high life and aped politeness in chambermaids, her taste for dress was novel and interesting." In the dexterous management of a fan no one could compare with her.

The little reel strain so widely used for "wing-ing in our varieties for the past year or so has had many twistings, and

MRS. ABINGTON.

AS ROSALIND IN "AS YOU LIKE IT."

Garrick was exceedingly ungenerous towards Mrs. Abington. He did much to annoy her, and his published correspondence contains many caustic letters addressed by him to her. "She is below the thought of any honest man or woman," he said; "she is as silly and as false as she is treacherous." Yet Mrs. Abing ton forgave his sneers and was never tired of praising his genius. Of his eyes, she said that whatever expression they assumed they seemed to operate by fascination; in all her intercourse with the world she had never beheld eyes with such wonderful expression, brilliancy and force. She thought that Shakespeare was made for Garrick, and Garrick for Shakespeare. "I do impartial justice to your merit," Horace Walpole wrote to her in 1775, "and fairly allow it equal to any actress I have ever seen, but believe the present age will not be in the wrong if they hereafter prefer it to those they may live to see." A life-like glimpse of her in her retirement is given in Henry Crabb Robinson's "Reminiscences," under date of June 16, 1811: "Dined at Sergeant Rough's, and met the once celebrated Mrs. Abington. From her present appearance we can hardly suppose she could even have been otherwise than plain. She herself laughed at her snub-nose; but she is erect, has a large, blue expressive eye, and an agreeable voice. She spoke of her retirement from the stage as occasioned by the vexations of a theatrical life. She said she should have gone mad if she had not quitted her profession. She had lost all her professional feelings, and when she goes to the theatre can laugh and cry like a child; but the trouble is too great and she does not often go. * * Mrs. Abington would not have led me to suppose that she had been on the stage by either the manner or the substance of her conversation. She speaks with the ease of a person used to good society rather than with the assurance of one whose business it was to imitate that case."

She once made the mistake of playing Scrub, in "The Beaux' Stratagem," with her hair dressed for Lady lady Rackett, a character which she acted after Scrub, on the same evening. This ill-advised venture was made on the occasion of her benefit. It naturally brought much ridicule upon her. Grotesque portraits of her in this character were made at the time, and are still to be met with in old printshops. The performance was thus alluded to by Peter Pindar:

The courtly Abington's unteward star Wanted her reputation much to mar And sink the lady to the washing tub—So whispered, "Mistress Abington, play SCRUE." To folly full as great some imp may lug her. And bid her slink in Fircu and Aret. Drugder.

Dr. Johnson, who seems to have had a great admiration for Mrs. Abington's abilities, was solicited by her to attend her benefit. He did so. Boswell's inquisitive nature asserted itself. "Why, sir," he asked, "did you go to Mrs. Abington's benefit? Did you see?" "No. sir." "Did you hear?" "No. sir." "Why, then, sir, did you go?" "Because, sir, she is a favorite with the public; and when the public cares a thousandth part for you that it does for her, I will go to your benefit, too."

Mrs. Abington at one time kept a mansion in Clarges street. Pieceadilly, and, in 1807, she writes to Mrs. Jordan of her happiness in her two rooms at 19 Grosvenor place, Eaton square. She hved during her last years in Pall Mall, and there she died on March 4, 1815, aged eighty-three years. She was buried at St. James' Church, Pieceadilly, where no monument marks her grave, and where there does not even appear to be a tablet to the memory of this girted actress and benevolent woman. Sir Joshua Reynolds painted a full-length portrait of her, and a picture of her is in the Garriek Club.—Lendon Theatre.

Pig Piano.—The pig piano was a reality, and not a freak of the humorists. Abbe Montendre, of Louis XIV's time, was the inventor. He had a chest in which were placed pigs of various ages, whose voices ranged from a dulcet tenor to E-flat in alt. They were manipulated by a piano key-board, the ends of the keys being armed with needles, which were poked into the porkers' flanks.

"Dip they perform with credit?" asked the advance-agent of the proprietor of the hall, alluding to the comic-opera troupe that had performed there the previous week. "They did, indeed," said the hall man, very emphatically. "They got credit at every store they could. The hotel had to board them on credit, and my hall-rent was credited, too. They performed with credit all around."

WILLIAM HENRY HILL, son of Charles Barton Hill, died in Chattanooga, Tenn., last week, aged about thirty two years. Young Hill came to this city from San Francisco about 1876, and a few years later became attached to the staff of The years later became attached to the staff of The Herald, for which he did desultory sporting and other work, at last being advanced to the position of assistant city editor. He left The Herald in 1883, and assisted in starting the New York News Agency, in which he was not successful. Latterly he had been a correspondent at the South for The World of this city. He left several children, having married a Miss Bridges, sister of a lady Known in musical circles. Barton Hill about 1852 married Olivia Crook, a singer and actress at the Broadway Theatre, this city, in the early days of that house. She secured a divorce from Mr. Hill about 1860, and he subsequently married a daughter of Mrs. John Sefton by her first husband.

And what will we do for the stage marches? Verily, novelty would be welcome there, as in other lines. We all know how they will march as soon as we see the "Amazons," and as soon as as soon as weeke the Amazona, and as soon as the music says something. Up and down, forward and back, all around, around the other way, in single line, in bunches of two, four, six, etc., in solid line, and then altogether, all down front "here we come"—and then off. And all the little musical comedy companies must have a nice little march, and they all have just about the same nice little march, we've been looking at for years. match, and they all nave just about the same nice little march we've been looking at for years. Gentlemen stage-managers, get your heads to-gether, and send the dear girls marching around in some other way. Spring it on us, and make it good, and we'll all be there.

CHARLES FRANCIS ADAMS JR. within a week in formed a CLIPTER representative, as to the future of the Boston Bijou Theatre, that, to use his own words, "everything is tied up; nothing can be done about it at present; the property will probably be used as a theatre.

THE throwing of bouquets to ladies on the stage is not particularly annoying to anybody, but when lusty and unpoetical-looking gentlemen "favorites" have to stop their performance, grin sweetly, and gracefully grab for huge bunches of flowers, the sight is very apt to—excuse the expression—"make a feller sick."

THE musicians who play on the excursions of a number of the "pleasure" clubs around New York City must have exciting experiences sometimes, since it is necessary to carry "guns" as well as instruments to attend to the more unruly "pleasure" visitors.

OUR CHICAGO LETTER tells how neatly a wife whom the profession knows trapped a dilatory whom the profession knows trapped a dilatory husband, whose name is not unfamiliar to light-opera patrons. It all came out of a change of stockings by the husband. He put the right on left, which was altogether wrong, as he found to his cost. The sad part of it is that it may create a demand among erring husbands for rights and lefts in socks—and socks have thus far been very independent articles of underwear.

Brodie, wanted $150 a week for ten weeks, and would exhibit on no other terms.

No one knows better how to do a neat bit of advertising than P. T. Barnum. Last Winter, in answer to an invitation to lecture on temperance answer to an invitation to lecture on temperance before the "Good Samaritans" of New Haven, Ct., he wrote: "No, I cannot visit you at present. I seldom lecture now, and never in cold weather. I hear of the noble work in the cause of temperance that the Good Samaritans are doing in New Haven, and wish you God-speed. Remember me to my former press-agent, Thomas, who is in the printing business somewhere on Chapel street. Well, if he promises a job in thirty minutes, he will have it on time or bu'st the boiler."

A THEATRICAL ROUNDER thinks he has caught on to a novelty. Formerly his programme was read before or during the performance, and he knew all about it. Now he reads it after he gets home, and he finds it a very enjoyable scheme—the record of the names, etc., after he has speculated about them, proving interesting and novel.

AUGUSTIN DALY'S sister-in-law died in London Eng., last week. She was the wife of Judge Joseph F. Daly, of this city, and was on a visit at the time.

ZUKERTORT'S SPEECH.—On his return to London, Dr. Z. was the recipient of an enthusiastic reception at the City Club. What he said, in answer to the chief toast, is reported in C. P. C. It evoked prolonged cheering, and is so satisfactory that it ought to be reiterated till every chesplayer in the world has seen it. He said: "About seven months ago you did me the honor to entertain me in this club-room. I was then on the point of leaving for America, to enter upon a severe contest with a formida ble opponent. The result of that contest has not, perhaps, come up to your expectation, but I do not wish to offer any apology or excuse for myself. On the contrary, I wish here to say that I received from the American people, and one to content of the continuation of the contrary and the property of the continuation of the contrary of the continuation of the continuation

Sale of Morphy's Trophies.

Sale of Morphy's Trophies.

The effects of Paul Morphy, the famous chess-player, were sold by auction in New Orleans, July 24, to settle his succession. Among them were the trophles and prizes won by him in this country and in Europe while chess champion of the world. The prices brought were small. The chief trophy was a set of chess in gold, silver and iewels, presented to Morphy by his admirers in New York and Brooklyn in 1859. The men are four inches high, of solid gold and silver, set with rubles and mounted in cornelian. The gold pieces represented the Roman Emperor and the army; those of silver the Barbarian invaders of the empire. The pieces are exquisitely carved, each representing a soldier of some kind in field armor. This was sold to Walter D. Denege for $1,361 armor. This was sold to Walter D. Denege for $1,361 armor. This was sold to Walter D. Denege for $1,361 armor. This was sold to Walter D. Denege for $1,361 armor. One of the American Value of the New York in 1857, was also sold to Mr. Samory for $250, and set of silver won by Morphy at the first Congress of the American National Chess Association in New York in 1857, was also sold to Mr. Samory for $400.

CHECKERS.

Position No. 20, Vol. 34. By A. HANNAH, Glasgow. BLACK.

White to play and win.

"Why have I given up writing for the stage? I will tell you," says M. Emile Augier. "One day, when I was young, I was in the private room of a theatrical manager. A servant brought him a visiting card. He read it, made a face, and exclaimed: 'I can't see him; let him leave me in peace, the old bore!' I looked at the card; it was Eugene Scribe's. Imagine the most successful dramatist of his time being treated in this fashion! I then swore to myself that such a thing should never happen to me: I will not give any manager the chance of sending his domestic to me to say I cannot see him. This is the reason why my resolution not to write any more for the stage is irrevocable. I lead a very quiet simple life. I no longer care for the theatre. I found it so when the 'Adventuriere' was revived. Rehearsals bore me, tire me, irritate me; therefore I have given up dramatic work. I have no family. Hove my wife dearly as a good sexagenarian should do, and both of us, having reached the twilght of life, are calmily awaiting the approach of night."

CARDS.

CARDS.

J. L. K., Worcester.—There are those who play best-card forty-fives so that high trump does not take precedence of tricks captured by inferior trumps, while others play it so that it does. Neither practice is of essential service towards shaping a decision, because, if either is right merely because it is done, then anything is right, because there is no point in cards that is not played in all sorts of ways in one quarter or another. Our decision always is that, as there is no reason to depart from the regular game to play best-trump forty-fives if the count for the best trump is to be headed by the five tricks in play, it must not be so headed, but becomes valid as soon as it is played or is conceded to be high. Those who play so that the trump does not necessarily count simply overlook the important fact that they are defeating the very purpose of this special game, because under their method there is no count at all for high trump in one deal out of every three in a two-handed game, which on an average consists of but three deals. It is amusing that as if by instinctive reasoning, they prove themselves wrong every now and then by resigning the game to one who, having the lead and with ten to go, displays the five-fingers; yet, under the method they at other times claim to be right, they could have won that game while having twenty to go, merely by taking in the other four tricks.

Gus, La Grange.—"A opened pot, and B staid. The dealer raised both, and they stood. After the draw, as he was not the age.

W. M., Westield.—It is susceptible of mathematical demonstration that cassino with sweeps is a more difficult game than cassino with sweeps is a more difficult game than cassino with sweeps is a more difficult game than cassino with sweeps is a more difficult game than cassino without—unless all the players are bad ones equally, when, as skill cannot them regulate the sweeps, their presence makes the game one of enlarged chance, or augmented luck, whichever expression you prefer.

S. P. T., Chalses.—I

tively sure of the next three tricks. The eldest player won the game. 2. The first case disposes of this also.

FILERIS, Indianapolis.—"J. F. beits H. D. that it is easier to fill when drawing for a fourth ace than to fill when drawing on a sequence-flush of four.".... It is, as a general thing; but the bet cannot be decided, owing to its indefiniteness. There are eight of the forty imaginary straight-flushes that are twice as hard to fill as the aces. The other thirty-two are ust as easy to fill as the aces.

F. M., North Abington.—"Has any player the privilege of cutting the cards in draw-poker?"....No. But any player can insist that they be cut by the player immediately at the back of the dealer.

READING CLUS, Fort Sydney.—B cannot change his own six to seven. Had A built upon B's six, say to seven. Had A built upon B's six, say to seven. Be could have built the seven to eight, nine or ten, as he then would be building on A's pile.

S. J., Chicago.—'Poker. H. bets. The others pass out. It is them discovered that H. has six cards. Can he take the pot? The matter is referred to you as the best judge?.........Yes. This is a peculiar poker tradition, which has always had the force of law. It assumes that H's money, and not his cards, won, and that, as no one of the other parties had called, they were all out of the game for that hand, and therefore could not, as players, take cognizance of the fact that H. had six cards. It was not incumbent upon H. to tell them, no one having paid to see his cards. The tradition or law is founded in human turpitude of a rather broad kind. Every now and then we exercise the freeman's right of condemning it, but we cannot, single handed, attempt to set it aside. It is too deep-rooted.

S. AND R., Stillwater.—A had to show jacks only.

K., Lansingburg.—'Cribbage. A playe 8, B a 7, A a 9, and B a 6.".... B makes a run of four, and A a run of three. The party is wrong who claims that the cards must run either 6.7 8 and 9 or 9, 8, 7 and 6.

INQUIRER, Toronto.—'Jackpot poker. Is it n with his own cards what he would not have dared do had his partner passed or remained si'ent. Good euchre-players will not permit this. The idea is founded on an erroneous decision by a sporting paper, which, instead of having been revoked, has been made seem right through collusion between that journal and a work on cards, with the result that, while a printed rule and our contemporary's decision have been one way, general practice has been the other way.

S. L.—"Euchre. A deals, picks up the trump and says he will go alone. C says he will go alone against him. C cuchres A. Does he count four or two?'.....Two. C could not go alone and gain anything by so doing. There cannot be two lone hands at once at regular cuchre. At no cuchre can a man who has passed a trump say again what he will do with regard to it; and C must have passed if the deslor took it up.

esler took it up. H. M., Chicago,—"Do I understand THE CLIPPER": H. M., Chicago.—"Do I understand The CLIPPER's position on the show at poker when I say that it decides that a man who, after a call, declares his opponent's shown hand the winning one, forfeits his right to come in later and show winning cards, and that when a man calls his own hand a pair of deuces he can afterwards show three deuces and win?".... That is texactly. In other words, our decision is that a man can say what he pleases as to what his own hand holds, but must not talk about his opponent's so far as to resign the pot by acknowledging himself beaten.

BASEBALL, CRICKET, ETC.

E. J. G., St. John.—We have had three different statements as to this case. According to yours, the Nationals forfeited the game [9 to 0] for refusing to remain on the ground, choose another umpire, and proceed with the play. Your statement agrees with that submitted by "D. C., St. John." and answered in our issue of July 17. An obligation rests equall that submitted by "D. C., St. John," and answered in our issue of July 17. An obligation rests equally upon both clubs, regardless of which one was the challenger, to fill a vacancy in the umpire's position. It is a continuation of the obligation that rested upon them to choose an umpire in the first place.

R., Wilmington.—"I beta C that a pitcher cannot leave the box during an inning, to allow another player to pitch, unless he is sick or disabled.".....

H loses. He is just familiar enough with ball to be mixed. Any player in the nine can pitch at any time. If the regular pitcher becomes disabled, the club can go outside of its nine to fill the vacancy.

J. O. M., Brockton.—"To decide a bet, please give the age of the oldest ball-player in the National League."..... That will not do. State the bet.

H. C. S., Boston.—Driscoll did not perform the feat credited to him of shutting out the Louisvilles without a single man reaching first base. He came very near doing it, however, the Eclipse Club of Louisville failing to make a safe hit off him Oct 10, 1882, when twenty-eight men went to the bat in nine innings, but one man reaching first base, and that on an error by Lane of the Alleghenys.

G. N. K., Syracuse.—There would be only one run earned, if the base-runner could have been retired at first base on the throw by the pitcher. The only error which would win your bet would be one made when perfect play would have insured the putting-out of a base-runner.

E. L. L., Whitehall.—I. The base-runners cannot be

E. L. U., Whitehall.—1. The base runners cannot be E. L. L., Whitehall.—1. The base-runners cannot be put out, provided each runs to the next base on the said balk. If they should walk, they forfeit their exemption from being put out. 2 and 3. The ball would not be considered in play until the base-runners had reached their respective bases. 4 and 5. The base-runners have not the right to take one base without being put out if the passed ball fails to touch the fence within ninety feet of the home-plate.

P. G. E., Franklin Falls.—Bets go to the backets of the Tiltons, and on the basis of a score of 9 to U, if your statement is correct.

J. H. B., Richmond.—Feck & Snyder whose carl see in our business columns, can furnish you with everything in that line. They are both old ball-players.

J. F. S., New Haven.—D loses. It would not have helped him had New York played.

F. H., Port Hope.—"A bets B that the pitcher cannot be changed in the middle of an inning anless heas been injured. The facts are that the pitcher pitched five balls, which were easily batted, and then they wanted to change."..... A loses. They could change.

J. W., Winnipeg.—The base-runner was not out, the rules providing that the ball must be held by the fielder after touching him. The umpire could reverse his decision when he found that the catcher had not held the ball.

J. H. L.—We did not.

W. E. W., Chicago.—The quoit nearest to the mott wins. The pin should be driven in level with the surface, and the measurement taken from the centre point of mott (head of pin) to the nearest part of the quoit. The rules of the game do not recognize "ringers" as such.

RIP, Woodstock.—The fastest mile ever ridden on a bicycle was R. Howell's 2m. 31 %s., at Springfield, Mass. In England H. A. Speechley rode in 2m. 34 %s. Brooks.—We keep only the fastest records, for both classes, as they are made; consequently, cannot give you that asked for. Write to him, in our care.

J. H. P., Montreal.—B wins. "Three straight goals" means that the winning team takes the first, second and third goals.

P. B., Baltimore.—1. The CLIPPER only chronicles sports. This gives the different ways the diec can fall."....
You are ingenious. But you win the bet. nevertheless.
The chances are that the two sixes will be coupled inside of twenty-five throws. As to your figuring, it is correct as far as it goes.

D. A. McD., West Bay City.—"Off the spot" at pinpool means that the pin, although still maintaining its perpendicular, has been knocked at least two inches off its proper spot. That pin counts.

TWO LEAGUES OR ONE LEAGUE?

For several years THE CLIPPER has advocated the organization of two representative leagues, one in the East and the other in the West, in the place of the existing National League and the American Association. When it was first advanced in these columns, it was by many regarded as almost impracticable; but year after year THE CLIPPER'S project has been gaining ground in the estimation of the most astute and enterprising of the clubmanagers of the two leading professional organizations. The experience of the past two years, but especially of the latter one, has shown the plan to be not only feasible, but also one that is really called for by the best combined interests in 1887 of the N. L. and the A. A. The two organizations have already agreed upon a joint represent-ative committee for the framing of a code of playing rules, and now they propose to appoint a schedule committee similarly representative in character.

While these organizations are thus moving in While these organizations are thus moving in the line of progress, why cannot their presidents join in a committee of the whole on the organization of one grand national league of professional clubs, whose territory would embrace the best-paying cities of the West as its Western moiety, and those of the best paying Eastern cities as its Eastern half? Thus the clubs of one section might play together from May to Angust or Sentember. Eastern half? Thus the clubs of one section might play together from May to August or September for one championship, while the remaining clubs are battling for the championship of their section. After that they could jointly devote a month to games for the titular championship of the United games for the tutuar champions por the chief States, half to be played in the West and the other half in the East, with a deciding game, if necessary, in some neutral city. An immense saving of capital would ensue at the expense of railroad companies, as by this plan the costly tours that now so greatly lessen the year's profits would be done are with would be done away with.

It seems to us that it will have to come to this eventually, as surely as that two organizations so foremost as the League and the American Association must in time play under a uniform code. Why not have it come in 1887?

THE SCITLING CHAMPIONSHIP.

Gratification was expressed everywhere on receipt of the intelligence, cabled on Saturday, that a match was as good as made between the world's champion, William Beach, and America's champion, Jacob A. Gaudaur, to row for an announced stake of ten thousand dollars and the title held by the Australian. It appears that, through no fault of Gaudaur, but owing to unforeseen circumstances occurring in London, the challenge originally sent went astray, which caused the delay in closing ne-gotiations. The fact that an arrangement has been reached affords the best evidence that the Missourians "meant business" from the start. It is satisfactory, too, to know that the man who is first to meet the mighty Beach in a match is our present champion, instead of Hanlan or Teemer, both of whom in succession lost the position now held by Gaudaur. That his backers seem to be willing to risk so much money on his chance is conclusive proof of the confidence they repose in his powers—a faith that would seem to be fully warranted by the form displayed by him this year. Whatever some persons may think or pretend to know regarding the circumstances that contributed to the result of races in which Gaudaur has appeared since the season opened, the issue of those events proved that at least he rowed to win every time. Let us hope that when he meets Hanlan's conqueror on the Thames, "Jake" may add another to his unbroken chain of victories for 1886. sition now held by Gaudaur. That his backers

THE LITHOGRAPH WAR will worry only the managers of the legitimate. Vaudeville backers and circus owners who have talked with THE CLIPPER on the subject agree that the big-stand craze has gone too far in their business to allow serious thought of its extermination. This is natural, Entertainments of the variety and sawdust types demand pictorial advertising, since a great majority of their patrons are peculiarly affected by jority of their patrons are peculiarly affected by announcements of that nature. The hanger, the billboard, the lithograph and the dodger are, indeed, indispensable among the vaudevilles. There need be no fear that they will disappear. If the legitimate can get along without them, the variety-manager certainly will not object. It will leave him more room on the boards and in the windows, and he will, through decreased competition, find it easier to make terms for his deadheads.

THE announcement that the League clubs had arranged to prolong the championship season in order comfortably to get through with their postponed games turns out to have been "a flash in the pan." One club objected. It is long odds that it was not New York. That club has more to gain by the proposed extension than either Chicago or Detroit. This is in theory the season lasts, the greater opportunity it will have to make good for past defeats, on the principle that, if the club is behind because of bad play, rather than because of bad luck, it has more to learn about baseball playing than either of the others. The "Giants" had better claim that bad luck is the cause of their backwardness, the others. The "Giants" had better claim that bad luck is the cause of their backwardness, the more especially as the extension now seems out of all question.

ARE we to have another John L. Sullivan. Al though the wife of the Bostonian marvel was un successful in her suit for divorce, yet she is apart from him, residing with relatives in Warwick, R. I. Her son, John L. Sullivan Jr., is with her. He is only twenty-seven months old, but is reported to be chock full of athletic promise. His inclination is to handle heavy weights, whence we infer that he will develop into a wrestler, rather than emulate his paternal progenitor by drifting in o ago

A FEW YEARS AGO we suggested that baseball pitchers should be cast-iron-in fact, cast out of iron-in order to stand the strain of ten or eleven innings. Last Thursday's game ought to send up the price of cavorters who are also athletes. Get-zein gave out at the end of the tenth inning, when the score was 2 for Detroit and just as many for Kansas City, and the latter got in an entire decado.

THOSE who bet on the size of aggregated baseball scores scarcely "pause to hesitate." or they would hoard their wealth. The score last week tween Kansas City and Detroit was 10 to 2. Had not the Kansas City Club been so unfort ate as to lose the toss, the score would have be 3 to 2.

THE difference between a base-runner and professor of religion deserting his church is that one is a front and the other a back slider. IT NEVER COMES BACK.

The New Yorks regained a lost point in the cham-pionship race yesterday by defeating the Washington Club. The Chicago and Detroit Clubs did not play. —N. Y. Sun.

This would be good logic if the New Yorks had lost a club-house cat on Saturday and had found it on Monday. One given for one is tit-for-tat on the schoolboy's slate, but a game in a series among a number of competitors is a positive loss some where unless all the competitors give game for game equally. In losing a game last Saturday to Washington and winning one from it on Monday, the New Yorks went considerably backward in the championship race, instead of holding their own. They lost less because Chicago and Detroit did not play than they would have done had those clubs played on Monday and won; but even had Chicago and Detroit played and lost, New York would still and Detroit played and lost, New York would still have been a loser by the exchange of games with Washington, for the simple reason that Detroit, Chicago and New York are the three leaders in the championship race, and New York is so hindmost that the other two clubs can, except as between themselves, afford not only to "give and take." but also to lose two or three games apiece. New York and Detroit have since our last each lost a game; yet the former is worse off, as regards her relations to the latter, than she was when we last went to press. Baseball is to some extent gambling; and it is an axiom of gamblers that what is lost is never recovered. We may seem to resume our former position, but it may seem to resume our former position, but it will be only by means of new winnings. The losing is positively in the past, never to be re-

IT MAKES US DESPAIR of fair-play when we hear Englishmen still prating that the reason for the defeat of the Genesta by the Puritan lies in the injustice of the American system of measurement. which makes these two boats rate about equal, although the Puritan is much beamier. The English alone are to blame for this. Their cutter was devised to dodge the handicapper, and for no other purpose. They measure above the water-line. What is below don't go. Then they drop a slab of wood edgewise into the water, crowd it with sail above, and load it with lead at the bottom in order to keep the whole business from toppling over. The cutter was meant to be cunning. It is a fraud.

JACOB SCHAEFER, the billiard-player, has not been busy with his cue of late, but he is none the less ambitious. He writes us that he is ready for all comers, at any style of game. As George F. Slosson is his likeliest antagonist at all times, it is unfortunate for the interests of billiards next season that the Chicagoian's recent domestic be-reavement may withdraw him from the lists for some time, although, taking a practical view of the matter, he could not more wholesomely divert his mind from sadness than by developing his heretofore very active cue. Schaefer, who has been the representative of many localities in his time, may now be set down as an exponent of time, may now be set down as an exponent of billiards in St. Louis.

ANOTHER FEATHER was displayed in the cap of the Washington Park Racing Association, Chicago, when four-year-old Jim Guest on Saturday last equaled the fastest time on record for a mile and equaled the tastest time on record for a mile and a half. His performance does not take rank in point of merit with that of the mighty Luke Blackburn, who, besides being a year younger, carried four pounds more, and accomplished it on a much slower track. The chain-lightning character of the Chicago track will be apparent when it is known that such a horse as Punka, carrying 105tb, $nished but a length behind Guest.

THE continued cool weather has been highly favorable to the few open theatres in this city, and managers who closed early in anticipatory fear of a prolonged hot spell are realizing that they were somewhat previous, so to speak. In hopes of atonement many of them are going to reopen with a rush in the middle of August; and that is just about the time the weather clerk thinks we will catch the caloric in large quantity. Evidently, managerial sagacity does not extend to weather-reckoning.

CHARGE AND COUNTER-CHARGE.—Teemer's backer, William German, accuses that oarsman of crookedness, and then Teemer rushes into print charging his backer with the same offense. Teomer repels every specified accusation made by his backer, but admits that in one or two of their joint transactions, as to which his backer has made no accusation at all, he himself did not pull to win!

The McKeesport sculler is determined that the discrete whether the second of the s gruntled "Dutchman" shall not appear to be right as to anything. Teemer is an oarsman of splen-did promise whom this season has wasted.

THE death of the veteran John M. Brunswick will be regretted by many. It cannot affect billiards materially. With respect to the game, his life was a paradox. He realized handsomely from it pecuniarily without having ever bothered him-self much about it. Such a chance as his will probably never come to another man while bil-liards or the world endures.

SOMEONE asks: "Why not send Mr. Priest, rather than Mr. Wright, to represent the checker-players of this country in England?" If the Priest will consent to officiate, it would certainly be wrong consent to officiat to send Wright.

"I DON'T CARE PARTICULARLY about making these fee-nominal shots!" growled the billiardist who had been promised only a small beer for executing a fancy carom in a bar-room.

WHEN those ten runs rolled in against Detroit last Thursday, someone shouted "Getzein! Getzein!" But a disgusted Michigander sized it up right: "Gets ein? No! Gets sen-gets h-l!

THE INGENIOUS SNAKE.

The season for snake stories is well advanced, and thus far there has been no lack of thrilling literature on the subject. A correspondent from Jasper Township, who is too modest to sign his name, vouches for a somewhat peculiar phase of snake character which has fallen under his immediate observation this Spring. Although contrary to the rule made and provided as to anonymous communications, The Herald, as a conscientious newspaper, draws the line of its objections at snake stories.

The Jasper Township reptile belongs to that class known as "blue racers," and its length is four and a half feet. There is a cow in the scrape, too, and her calf, which latter innocent has been the sufferer.

Our authority says that up to the last month the calf, which was running in the pasture with its mother, prospered and waxed fat. Suddenly it began to fall away, and continued on the down grade until it was too weak to follow the cow. He could not divine the cause of the trouble, for when the cow was driven up to where the calf was, it attacked the seat of nourishment with the greatest avidity. But notwithstanding its apparently healthy appetite, it kept on losing fleeh and strength until the farmer concluded that the cow was robbing her own offspring by taking the benefit of her own milk. Thereupon he concluded to conceal himself and watch the actions of the cow and her treatment of the calf, after first having got the calf to feeding in good shape.

For a few moments all went well. Presently, how-shape.

For a few moments all went well. Presently, however, a suake was seen approaching the animals very slowly and with great caution. It moved forward until it was directly under the cow, and then with a sudden spring coiled itself around her thigh, leaving its head and tail free from the coil. Now comes the strange part of the story. By a rapid movement, which the spectator could not see distinctly, the calf's mouth was disengaged from the test and the tail of the snake was inserted as a substitute. As long as he could endure the sight the snake's attention was divided between stealing the milk for itself and fooling the calf with its tail. The cow in the meantime stood perfectly still and paid no attention to the little game of finesse which was being played so skilfully. Our correspondent concludes his story by a description of the way he killed the snake, but further than the one observation that its tail had been badly blunted and calloused by the suction in the calf's mouth the rest of the story has no special point of merit.—Carroll Herald. shape.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST SUNSTROKE.

PRECAUTIONS AGAINST SUNSTROKE,
The full meaning of sunstroke is not included in that term. Heatstroke or insolation is a better word, and implies a further peril besides the downward glare of an unclouded sun. The concentrated heat of a close workroom, as well as the exposure incurred by some careless laborers in the open field, may lead to most serious consequences. The exhaustion of work also, particularly ir clothing is heavy, is a predisposing condition which should not be lost sight of. Ventilation, regular nutrition, light clothing, and, as far as possible, remission of the pressure of work, are strongly indicated by the weather conditions under which we are now living, and we therefore venture to impress their importance alike on employer and employed. Beer and other stimulants are hurtful rather than helpful, and the substitution of non-intoxicant cooling drinks for those beveridges is a truly scientific and sanitary advance in public taste. Protection of the head is a subject which is now fairly well understood. It should not be forgotten that the neck as well as the cranium requires to be covered.—London Lancet.

O'CONNOR'S interpretation of Shylock differs somewhat from that of Officit tragedians we have seen, but it is a strong and creditable performance.—N. Y. MIR (OR, May 2), 1896.

Special Telegram from Darlington, Illinois, to Manager E. B. Smith.

O'CONNOR played here on Saturday night to a LARGE house. He gave the finest entertainment Darlington ever saw. (Signed)

E. R. SWEARINGEN.

O'CONNOR, the tragedian, with his company, arrived in this city this morning. In personal appearance he resembles closely. Edwin flooth. If what the exchanges say of him is true, O'CONNOR is an actor of exceptional ability, polish and refinement. His impersonation of Richeline is said to be a splendid effort, and one in which he brings forcibly to mind the genius and greatness of that famous churchman.—Dallay COMMOWEALTH, Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, June 7,018, who has been heralded as the successor of McCullouch, made his appearance in the Armony Opera bouse last night as Richelieu. As to Mr. O'Connor being the successor of the dead tragedian time alone will determine. That he possesses true dramatic GENIUS, every one who had the pleasure of witnessing his performance last evening most admit. His distinctness of articulation, graceful delivery and the noticeable absence of ACCENT reminded one forcibly of Booth. It must be admitted, however, that in his expression of rage or passion his voice assumed a falsetto tone that was rather designeeable, and before giving utterance to this tone. Use was in every other respect excellent. That Mr. O'Connor ASNIMED the tone, believing it best represented the voice of a man physically weak, there is no doubt; and while he is worthy of commendation for his adherence to what he considers the proper interpretation of the character, yet he would gain more rapidly in public favor by sacrificing art a little, and modifying the tone to that of astrong, healthy man. Mr. O'Connor's voice is full and flexible. In the expression of GRIEV very text and from the beginning to the ending of the performance command

G. C. BELKNAP, Manager Opera house, Fortland, Michigan.

Perhaps it was in good taste that the Amory Operahouse should have been as strouded in gloom last evening. But the dim uncertainty of the light, which has become a chronic provision of the management of that hall, could not diminish the effect of the admirable manner in which the new actor—nee and ductace—pty. With some pardomable oversitions, the support accorded MR. OTONNOR was satisfactory; and those exceptions only sufficed to render more effective his assumed individuality as a delineator of the varying moods characterizing the crafty but impulsive Cardinal. In the scene where the accredited representative of the Holy Father enfolds the shrinking Julie within the protecting arms of his church, the SILENCE in the auditorium was the best possible manifestation of appreciation. To night such of our readers who desire to attend an entertainment of which they are seldom afforded an opportunity should not fail to be present at "The Merchant of Venice."—DAILLY REPORTER, Fond du Lac, Wisconsin, June 8, 1846.

This is to certify that O'CONNOR AND COMPANY played "Othello" and "Hamlet" here in the most approved style.

O'CONNOR is the best actor who ever appeared in this city. — JOHN HARTMAN, Manager Opera house, Stanton, Michigan.

O'CONNOR has achieved an immense success in Europe and the Western cities, and by many able critics is pronounced the equal of Irving.—NEWS-HERALD, Peru, Ind., May 5, 1886.

JAMES OWEN O'CONNOR departs from Bloomington with a new experience. It is quite certain that in all the dramatic history of this city there has never been so much abuse heaped upon a gentleman of the dramatic profession as has been heaped upon him by all the news, papers of Bloomington, with the exception of THE PANTAURAPH. There is little difference between honest criticism of an actor and the style adopted by our contemporaries. Mr. O'Connor is neither a Booth nor a first advertised my extensive line of Theatrical Stage Hardware, I first advertised my extensive line of Theatrical Stage Hardware, and in this comparatively short time I have worked up a very large trade with stage-carpenters and Scenic-artists all over the United States and Canada. I have exhausted two editions of my pricelist, and have printed A NEW CATALOGUE, which has about 25 pages, illustrating all the regular goods and novelties in Theatrical Stage Hardware. I have also reduced prices very materially on a great many of the goods. I think there are about 50,000 readers of THE CLIPPER who ought to have this Catalogue. Of course I cannot do them any good if they can get JUST what they want at home, and at SATISFACTORY PRICES, but to those desiring something better than the ordinary run of work made by a local blacksmith, I would say GIVE ME A TRIAL and at least send for the Catalogue.

PECK & SNYDER'S Popular Lung Tester

The public has long felt the necessity of a Spirometer (or Lung Tester) that would combine accuracy, beauty in form and shape, and pleasing and entertaining to the eye and mind, as well as ornamental and useful. Such is the one we take pleasure in presenting to our patrons for the first time. It is a beautiful instrument in every respect. It is highly decorated, has a silvery-toned patent gong attachment, which is adjusted to ring at every 50 cubic inches, registering 30c cubic inches. So perfect are its workings that there is not the slightest pressure or weight upon the lungs, even the smallest child being able to register their lung capacity.
